What Is Courage?
And What Is Radicalism?
In Prison, for Pay
Another Milestone

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

You read of many heroes. What do you think of this one? Homer J. Arnn found himself on the edge of the Grand Canyon, in charge of eleven horses loaded with the deadly explosive TNT to be used in blasting for a bridge. One animal became frightened and three were crowded over the edge. Pushing in among the struggling pack horses Arnn, government "packer," cut a rope that let three of the horses drop into the canyon and saved the rest.

If you have ever looked down, a mile or so, into the Grand Canyon, imagine eleven horses loaded with TNT struggling on the edge and yourself mixed up with them cutting the rope.

What is courage—absence of fear or absence of nerves, or pride, or what?

Certain Presbyterian ministers are denounced, accused of preaching "radicalism." Perhaps the reverend gentlemen had been reading the epistle that James, brother of Christ, wrote to the twelve tribes. Take the start of chapter 50:

"Go to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

"Your riches are corrupted and your garments are moth-eaten."

Meditating on that might turn a Presbyterian toward radicalism. And read further:

"Behold the hire of the labourers who have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth; and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth."

If a Bolshevik from Russia talked like that at Ellis Island, would they let him in? They would NOT.

What is radicalism?

In some parts of this glorious country saloonkeepers, sentenced to imprisonment for violating the prohibition law, hire a man for a hundred dollars to spend their terms in jail.

In some places also, if you want to be a lawyer, you can hire a substitute to pass the examination for you and can even get "proof" of your having attended a law school that you never saw.

In China, a man condemned to death, could, until recently, hire somebody else to have his head cut off as a substitute. Often the substitute sacrificed his head to get the money for his parents. Among savages the chief will sacrifice a beautiful young girl or several beautiful young girls to appease a god supposed to be angry at the chief. In comparison with China and Africa, we are still "civilized."

Lieutenant Coney has flown across the United States from San Diego to Jacksonville, in twenty-two hours and thirty minutes. That is a milestone on the road of human progress. It means going to Europe soon between sunrise and sunrise. It means eventually going around the world in twenty-four hours. Man now has conquered space, and the law of gravitation, with his wireless and his flying machine. The next thing is to conquer himself; stop cutting other men's throats, and calling that operation patriotism.

The case of Miriam Ruben, a little girl at Waukegan, Ill., will not please some "regular" doctors, but is interesting to osteopaths, who have sense enough to know that the skeleton is as important to a human being as the iron framework to a skyscraper.

The child afflicted with "talking sickness" talked steadily for two hundred and twelve hours and must have died soon.

The second and third vertebrae were out of place, causing pressure on a nerve. Inhibition, power of self-control, was lacking. The vertebrae were adjusted, and the talking stopped. Millions of men have been weakened by drugs and in old days by bleeding, when a slight adjustment of the skeleton and mechanical stimulation of nerve energy would have cured their trouble.

John Nicholas Brown, frequently mentioned in newspapers for years past as "the richest baby," celebrated his twenty-first birthday last Monday, and became master of his fortune. It amounted to twenty-five millions fifty years ago, and now amounts to many times twenty-five millions.

Part of this fortune, in the hands of the young man's grandfather, founded Brown University. What will the Mr. Brown of 1921 do with his money? This piece of news emphasizes the wisdom of the old Americans that prevented tying up money for more than two lives, thus limiting accumulation.

New York, Feb. 25.—In February, 1919, shortly after my return to New York from Siberia, where I was accredited as war correspondent to the American Expeditionary Forces, an American officer of the military intelligence department, submitted to me a "document" which he said he considered of great importance and of far-reaching significance. He wanted me to examine it and give him my opinion of it.

TRAIN BANDITS GET $125,000 FROM MAILS

Roodhouse, Ill., Feb. 25.—Three men, armed with rifles, held up a train running from Kansas City to Chicago early today and escaped with registered mail.

It is reported that the bandits obtained $125,000 shipped by a Kansas City bank to one in Chicago.

The robbery occurred near East Quincy, Ill., but was not reported to officials until the train arrived here early today.

An attempt to rob the same train was made three weeks ago, but the bandits were driven off by the crew.

According to Engineer Donahue, the bandits halted the train near Louisiana, Mo., by waving flags. As he slowed down three men leaped on the tender of the engine and crawled to the engine, covered Donahue and the fireman with their rifles and forced them to detach the mail coach and baggage car from the train.

The bandits forced the engineer to drive a mile or more ahead, which brought them across the Mississippi River to Sni, Ill. There two robbers guarded the train crew while the third entered the mail coach and robbed it.

The bandits deserted the train and disappeared in the darkness.

The "Hummer" left Kansas City at 5:25 p. m. yesterday.

COLDEST IN HUB EIGHT DEGREES ABOVE

The temperature rose steadily today after one of the coldest nights of the year, in which the mercury went to zero in parts of New England.

The coldest in Boston in the last twenty-four hours was 8 above, which was the temperature at 7 o'clock this morning. The low temperature, coming after the melting of the snow, caused hard going on the streets early today, particularly for horses. Sidewalks which were not sanded were also decidedly uncomfortable for pedestrians.

Some low temperatures in Greater Boston were: South Boston, 18 above; Fields Corner, 9; Mattapan, 9; Chelsea, 10; Revere, 8; Dedham, 10; Malden, 6; Medford, 4; Melrose, 6; Brookline, 9; West Roxbury, 7; Winthrop, 12; Roxbury Crossing, 12.

Concord, N. H., reported zero weather during the night. Unofficial returns showed that it was even colder in Northfield, Vt., and Greenville, Me.

OFFICER OF CADETS AMONG SLAIN

Battle of Ballyvourney One of Fiercest Yet Fought in Irish Warfare

By International News Service.

Dublin, Feb. 25.—One of the biggest battles in the warfare which has been raging in Ireland was fought today near Ballyvourney, when the crown forces were defeated by a heavy section of the Irish Republican Army.

It is known that two members of the Crown forces were killed and upwards of six wounded, but the total casualties have not been checked up.

One of the dead was Major Grant, commanding the Black and Tan police. There were more than 300 Sinn Feiners in the band which attacked the military police.

Eight police lorries filled with Black and Tans were passing through the Coolea district west of Macroom, when they ran into roads that had been mined.

An attack was opened upon the lorries with the Sinn Feiners firing from behind barricades.

From a skirmish the engagement grew into a furious battle with the crash of gunfire audible for miles. Reinforcements of heavily-armed policemen were rushed to the scene

Allies Tricked U. S. in Giving Yap to Japan

Washington, Feb. 25.—Several sharp diplomatic exchanges between the United States and Great Britain over the disposition of the important Island of Yap preceded Secretary Colby's formal note to the League of Nations Council protesting its award to Japan, it was learned authoritatively today.

In the same quarter it was revealed that the government is in the possession of evidence showing that the records of the peace conference were at least changed if not falsified to substantiate the claims of Japan to its possession of Yap, which is the key to the Trans-Pacific communication system.

Under the agreement to which President Wilson gave his consent at the conference it was understood that "certain islands in the Pacific were to

Secret Bride

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 25.—Georgette Cohan, daughter of George Cohan, theatrical producer, eloped last night with J. William Souther, a popular young member of the Winter colony.

They were married at West Palm Beach, and then, like a bridal couple in one of her father's musical comedies, joined a party aboard Jesse Livermore's yacht and calmly announced what they had done.

The bride is twenty years old, and is herself an actress of talent, having appeared in London in "Mr. Pim Passes By" and "Peter Pan." Barrie praised her interpretation of the latter part.

What stand her father will take is interesting the colony, as he had set his heart on keeping her on the stage under his direction.

Mrs. Souther's mother, Cohan's divorced wife, was known on the stage as Ethel Levy, and is now the wife of Claude Grahame White, the British aviator.

Quick wit and rare courage saved Mrs. Thomas A. Clements, No. 95 Esmond street, Dorchester, more than $2,500 and defeated the well laid plans of a burglar early today.

The robber entered the house through the cellar, forcing open a rear window. After ransacking the lower floors and piling up a quantity of silverware, including a number of trophies won by Mr. Clements, the thief mounted to the second floor, where the family was asleep.

He went first to the room occupied by Miss Esther Rafferty, of No. 6 Greenville street, Roxbury, a relative of Mrs. Clements and took $14 from her handbag.

U. S. AND BRITAIN DIFFER OVER PROTEST ABOUT YAP

RECORDS FALSIFIED TO GIVE ISLAND TO JAPAN

go to Japan. No mention of Yap was made. In addition the President made the specific reservation that the disposition of Yap should be left to the international communications congress which was to meet later to allocate all of the German cables seized during the war.

Examination of the records subsequently made reveals that the word "certain" has mysteriously disappeared and in its place the name of Yap and other German islands in the Pacific inserted as having been ceded to Japan, one Senator, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said today. He added that the reservations made by the President had been completely obliterated from the record.

The exchanges between the United States and Great Britain were an outgrowth of the individual notes which were addressed to her together with France, Italy and Japan by the State Department before the note was transmitted to the league council. These notes set forth in plain terms the understanding of this country of the disposition made of Yap at the conference, and made the announcement that the United States would make a formal protest to the league if the award to Japan was allowed to stand.

U. S. INSISTED ON RIGHTS.

In her reply, Great Britain took the position that the United States legally could make no protest to the league as she had failed to become a member of it, and the suggestion was made that the league's decision be allowed to stand and this government take up the question of the possession of the island direct with Japan.

The State Department promptly declined to enter into any such negotiations. As the United States is one of the "allied and associated powers" which prosecuted the war, she has an equal interest with the other Allies in all the territory and cables surrendered by Germany. The American government therefore insisted in dealing with all her associates en masse and not with any one of them.

Moreover, as the agreement to reserve the island of Yap for disposition at the Communications Conference had been made by all the Allies at the Peace Conference the State Department insisted that the Allies be as good as their word.

The incoming Harding administration stands ready to back up the drastic action taken by Secretary Colby to the limit, it was learned tonight.

SENATE BACKS DAVIS.

Republican leaders in the Senate were fully apprised of the situation before the note was transmitted and through the Foreign Relations Committee gave their formal approval to the action taken by the State Department.

On two occasions, Norman H. Davis, Under Secretary of State, appeared before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, and laid the entire proposition before it.

On his second visit, Assistant Secretary Davis told the committee that the situation required vigorous treatment and upon his request Senator Lodge, chairman of the committee, drafted a letter to the State Department giving the official approval of the committee to any action the Secretary of State might deem necessary.

One member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said today that if Japan absolutely refuses to concede the United States equal rights on Yap and the League Council supports her, the United States will build its own cables across the Pacific and the Atlantic as well.

These cables, he said, will be owned and operated by the government and preclude in the future the repetition of the difficulty now facing the country.

GEDDES SEES COLBY.

The strong necessity of using Yap as a cable station was pointed out by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, also a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. This country, he said, already has direct communication with the Philippines, but because of the great depths traversed the cable frequently breaks and the service is unsatisfactory. If this condition is to be remedied, he asserted, Yap must be used as a relay station.

U. S. Must Cede Yap or Send Navy, Say Experts

Paris, Feb. 25.—"The only way for the United States to get the Japanese off the Island of Yap is to send a navy and land force of occupation."

This remark was made to the Universal Service staff correspondent today by a leading Japanese authority on international law who has closely studied the legal aspects of the American demand upon the League of Nations for a revision of the Yap mandate.

While this view of the situation is portentously grave, nevertheless it represents, in the view of observers here, the only possible solution of the mandate problem.

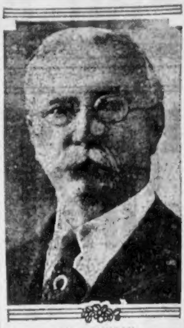
After conversations with both league and American embassy officials it can be stated authoritatively that the league council will suggest that the whole matter be postponed to a future meeting at which American representatives will be present. They will be invited to explain the American viewpoint. This is, of course, simply an astute move to make President Harding admit the league's official existence by appointing a delegate to plead before it.

That the subject is regarded as most urgent and important by the allied chiefs is proven by the fact that most of the morning was taken up by telephonic conversations between the league council and London. Balfour had a long talk with Lloyd George and Minister Bourgeois consumed much time talking to Premier Briand.

As a result of the conversations it is certain that America's note will be shelved until the big three have finished their conferences in London and can give time to framing an answer.

The League's probable invitation to President Harding is thus revealed as merely a means to gain time, since whatever the supreme council's decisions are, the United States will be bound to accept unless she decides upon direct action by her navy.

CANDIDATE



JAMES DUNCAN.

LABOR BOOMS DUNCAN FOR CABINET

Powerful Drive in Favor of Quincy Man Is Launched By Leaders

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 25.—President-elect Harding today confirmed reports of the appointment of Herbert Hoover of California as Secretary of Commerce and Henry Wallace of Iowa as Secretary of Agriculture.

A powerful drive is being made by organized labor in favor of James Duncan of Quincy, international president of the Granite Cutters' Union, as a member of President-elect Harding's Cabinet.

The reported selection of James J. Davis of Pittsburgh as Secretary of Labor failed to meet labor's approval and a telegram of protest was sent to Mr. Harding by officials of the American Federation of Labor.

While these officials refrained from naming any special candidate, they appealed for the appointment of a recognized representative of organized labor.

Duncan, who is vice-president and member of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor, is said to be acceptable to practically all labor men and has the backing of Senator Lodge.

The Senator conferred with Harry M. Daugherty, who is to be Attorney-General, and it is understood that Daugherty then telephoned Mr. Harding in Florida and told him that Duncan was strongly urged.

Duncan himself, accompanied by a delegation of strong labor men, is in Washington, it is stated, actively presenting his own case. His appointment is also understood to be favored by Senators Knox and Penrose of Pennsylvania. Duncan has been a lifelong Republican.

While Davis' name was not mentioned in the telegram sent Mr. Harding by the labor men, they said that the appointment of Duncan would be that of a real representative of the working people. According to Senator Lodge, as far as he could learn, Davis had no support from organized labor and did not represent anything.

Among the signers of the telegram were Samuel Gompers, president; Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor; all members of the executive council and heads of affiliated unions.

HARVARD TO ATTEND COLLEGE CONFERENCE

The Student Council of Harvard has reversed its decision not to be represented at a conference of forty-five colleges to be held at M. I. T. on April 15 and 16. The council's change of heart was brought about largely through criticisms by the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, and the fact that the arrangements for the conference have become definite within the past few weeks.

AROUSED SLEEPING WOMAN.

It was at that point that he made his first mistake. He became careless and tripped over a chair.

The noise awakened Mrs. Clements, who called out:

"Is that you Jim," believing it one of the boys in the house.

The tone of the thief's reply roused her suspicions and she jumped from bed and followed him into the hallway.

Hearing her coming the robber ran down the stairs followed by Mrs. Clements, with Mr. Clements just behind his wife.

In the kitchen the thief jumped through an open window and disappeared. Mr. Clements tried to follow him but Mrs. Clements ran to the front door and caught sight of the thief running down the street.

Still in her night clothes and without even her slippers on her bare feet, she dashed in pursuit, crying at the top of her voice for assistance.

Her cries appeared to frighten the fugitive, for he dropped virtually all of the loot he had taken with him, except two pairs of trousers belonging to Mr. Clements, and the money he had taken from Miss Rafferty.

BURGLAR ESCAPES.

As he neared the corner Patrolman Keane and Kelley of the Mattapan station, hearing the shouts of Mr. Clements who had joined his wife in the chase, came runing to the rescue. The burglar seeing them coming, dodged into a yard and escaped.

In the dining room a heap of booty, including silver loving cups and other trophies won by Mr. Clement, who is the president of the Dorchester Gentlemen's driving Club and an ardent horseman, had been piled by the robber.

Mr. Clements reported to the police that yesterday afternoon, while in Boston on business, his pocket was picked by three men who jostled him in the subway, and $41 taken.

taken for the descendant of an Irish chieftain. His father, he says, was born in Scotland. His mother, who was Mary Hyde, was born in the West Indies.

His father died some years ago. The latter's brother, John McLaughlin, remained in a city near Edinborough, Scotland, and prospered. Before his death he met his nephew Arthur, for whom he had a great liking, and told him he wanted to see him prosper and settle down.

Arthur left home when a lad of fifteen years, but had frequently corresponded with his uncle. Making his home for the time being in the South End young McLaughlin made the acquaintance of a "charming young woman," as he calls her. But his uncle felt before he died that Arthur should marry a "Bonny Scotch lassie." Arthur thought differently and does so today, especially when he loves an Irish beauty.

"Yes, it's true I received notice from a Scotland lawyer that I was left 300,000 pounds ($1,158,000) with the understanding that I marry a girl I do not love and settle down," said McLaughlin. "The latter stated that my uncle, John McLaughlin, bequeathed to me the sum of 300,000 pounds, with the understanding that I comply with his suggestions, namely, 'give up my roving disposition, fondness for the sea, marry—and settle down in Scotland.'

"I saw my cousin when he got married to a poor girl, and later living as man and wife in a cottage very happily. There's something better than money, happiness. That is what I crave. I find it in love. I'd rather live in an humble cottage with the girl I love than in a castle with a woman I didn't care for. That's why I'm refusing this legacy of 300,000 pounds."

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

GOODS which are favorably known to the consuming public will sell more quickly than goods which are unknown, for the same reason that the most popular girl in town generally gets her dance program filled in advance. From the standpoint of abstract justice it may be indefensible, but there is nothing very mysterious about it. She has a certain reputation as a charming companion—and there you are.

The days have gone by when the consumer had the opportunity or the ability to judge values at first hand. Once he took his wheat to the mill and received it back in the form of flour; he sheared his own sheep, wove the fabric on his own loom, and carried the fabric to the tailor; he selected the calfskins which went into his boots and watched every step of their manufacture.

He got value for his money because he knew values.

He bought upon confidence, but it was confidence to his own ability to judge materials and workmanship.

Times have changed, and men and women have changed with them. People still buy upon confidence, for without confidence business would cease, but it is confidence in the reputation of the seller.

They have no time to test materials or workmanship, and very seldom have they the ability to do so.

Therefore people accept the goods upon the reputation of the manufacturer, or the dealer, or both, and never think of stopping to weigh the contents of a package or test the composition of a fabric. Imagine what would happen to all our stores if they did!

Now advertising is simply a means for creating reputations and keeping them alive.

It adds nothing to the intrinsic merit of a product, but it does add immeasurably to its salability.

Every storekeeper knows the difference between an organized group of regular customers and a casual sidewalk trade which drifts in and out again.

There is the same difference between the organized desire for a nationally advertised product and the hit-or-miss acceptance of something whose antecedents are unknown.

It is true that goods are often sold upon the reputation of the retailer alone.

There is no question as to that.

But there is equally no question that the reputation of the retailer plus the reputation of a nationally known manufacturer will sell goods faster than the reputation of either standing alone.

Because this is true, advertising is a great instrument of economy. It enables merchants and manufacturers to turn their stocks quickly, and thus has grown up the adage, "Quick sales and small profits."

During the present period of adjustment, when the public is endeavoring to make every dollar do double duty, the economic [illegible] advertising is being impressed upon the reader, the merchant and the manufacturer. And advertising's advantage is mutual—otherwise it would not have grown to be the greatest commercial force in the world today.

MONSTER OF PAST TORTURES CLARA HAMON WITH MEMORIES

FORTUNE ENDED HAPPINESS, SHE SAYS IN LIFE STORY

(Editor's Note—Following is the second and concluding instalment of the story of Clara Smith Hamon, who goes on trial March 10 in Ardmore, Okla., on a charge of having killed Jake Hamon, oil millionaire, with whom she had lived for years.)

By CLARA SMITH HAMON.

Written Expressly for the International News Service.

(Copyright 1921, by the International News Service.)

Clara Smith Hamon

If I could have seen the future unroll itself on that day we stood together watching his first oil well come in, breathless with joy, I would have prayed God to end my life then. I would have seen before me the years of horror that followed, years that sickened my soul and wrecked my life. Oh, if I only could forget them! Like a hideous nightmare, they return to haunt me.

The past will not let me alone. A monster has me in its clutches and tortures me with memories. I must go on and on, living through the agony and degradation of those years that destroyed my world of love and dreams.

WEALTH, THEN AMBITION.

As soon as wealth came into his hands, his ambitions soared. He saw himself a great power. I no longer figured in his plans. The girl who had given him her youth, everything, when he was poor, now bored him. He had used me and now he wanted to cast me off, a broken toy on the doorstep of the world.

Before he had been insanely jealous of me. I dared not look at another man. He required of me the adoration of a slave, bound to him body and soul, and I gave it. He was the centre of my universe, and I was content to worship at his feet. To be with him was enough, but he added to my happiness by the little attentions that so appeal to women. It is a man's consideration in the little things that attract and hold a woman.

Later, when he became brutal and bestial, it was the memory of these things that kept me from hating him.

This memory blinded me to his neglect when it began. I clung to my illusions. I could not bear to have love's dream shattered. I kept excusing him to myself. I held to the hope that my love would bring him back if I waited long enough.

"VIRTUALLY A PRISONER."

I had no friends in Ardmore then. The only persons with whom I came in contact were his friends and business associates. He did everything possible to break my heart, and yet my love excused him. Even when my health broke down under his contempt and ill treatment my heart held hope. He kept me in two shabby, dark rooms in a hotel here, and there I lay, crying my eyes out, virtually a prisoner, and he my keeper.

Why did I stay as the years grew? Because I still clung to the memories of the past and always the hope throbbed in my heart that his old love for me would return.

But if I had left him, what was there before me? I was damaged goods in the eyes of the world—my virtue, my good name, everything that makes a woman precious to a good man gone. I have been pictured as a woman who wanted money. If he had given me all the millions in the world, could they have bought back my virtue, my good name?

The women have been wonderful to me because they understand. They understand as no man ever can.

Society condones a man who casts off a woman to fade and wither after he has robbed her of her sweetness and bloom. On the woman society burns the scarlet letter.

To be haunted always by ghosts of the past—can anyone conceive a greater punishment?

"LURED TO SIN."

I was only seventeen when I was lured to sin by a worldly man, old enough to be my father. But I could never rise in politics in Oklahoma or attain a place of public honor. My past would be bared. If ever I do anything worth while, my past will be dragged out.

But the man who entered the garden of my life and trampled on my dreams, leaving behind only crushed hopes and a broken heart, society honored.

He rose high in public life and all paid him tribute.

And now, while I am helpless, am I to be persecuted because others with interests involved in my case have millions and power behind them?

It is not true I cowardly ran away while he lay dying. I wanted to stay in Ardmore and tell the truth as I shall tell it on the witness stand. I had nothing to fear from the truth. I was made to go to save scandal.

I do not ask pity, I do not ask even tolerance—all I ask is justice.

I have bidden girls to take a moral lesson from my life. I have learned from cruel experience that the woman who gives herself out of wedlock wears heavier bonds than ever were forged at any marriage altar.

HEAVY FIGHTING NEAR TIFLIS BARS FOOD RELIEF

New York, Feb. 25.—Heavy fighting was still in progress between Bolshevik troops and Georgians near Tiflis on Sunday, according to a cablegram received today by the Near East Relief from Constantinople. Communication with Armenia has been cut off completely. There is urgent need in Tiflis for food. Unless the situation there is relieved quickly the whole scheme of relief in the Near East will suffer. A second dispatch said that flour, beans and rice were being shipped to Tiflis from Constantinople.

WAGE CUT MAY HALT LAWRENCE BUILDING

Lawrence, Feb. 25.—With the Master Builders' Association fixed in its determination to cut wages 20 per cent. in the building trades here March 1, and the employes of various large contracting concerns equally firm in their determination to resist the cut, a labor controversy is brewing which may tie up promised building activity. The master builders declare that the cut is being made in the interest of the public for lower costs and more tenements.

NEW HAVEN WOMAN ENDS LIFE IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Feb. 25.—Mrs Ellen Garrett, thirty-six years old, wife of Harry Garrett, committed suicide in a rooming house at No. 53 Market street. When found by the landlady, Mrs. George E. Burton, she had been dead about two hours. A tube connected with the gas jet was in her mouth and the gas turned on full. A note addressed to her husband and sister said she intended to end her life. The Garretts recently came here from New Haven, Ct.

THE GREATEST WEALTH

By BERNARD A. O'HEA
(Roxbury)

Over his forge the blacksmith bent
With thoughts of this world of discontent.

Happy was he as he toiled all day,
Cheerfully humming the hours away.

From early morn 'till dusk each night
His anvil rang, and the forge gleamed bright.

Happier still when the setting sun
Proclaimed another day well done.

He's satisfied with his simple life,
Shared by his child and loving wife.

Rich in health, and with conscience clear,
Such men as he have naught to fear.

Envied was he by the man of wealth,
Whose covers of gold could not purchase health.

Whose frequent spells of loneliness
Were never soothed by a child's caress.

Nor had the grounds of his vast estate
Ever been graced by a loving mate.

No wonder then that he would part
With what was dearest to his heart

If in this world he could possess
The blacksmith's peace and happiness.

'RICHEST MAN' CLAIMANT IN WALTHAM

Agrees in Spirit and Verse With Blacksmith Meyers; Other Letters

Fresh water and health,
"Fresh water and health,
With time to enjoy them
These are my wealth."

He agrees thoroughly with the idea of the "Richest Man in the World," the village blacksmith of Nebraska, Edward Meyers, as to what makes life worth while.

"If I have fresh air, sunshine and health, then no matter how poor I may be in money, generous nature will see that I need but little and that little will be easy to supply," says Mr. McCarthy's letter.

The letter was written in response to the request of the Boston American for ideas on the declaration of Meyers, that he was the richest man in the world because he was healthy, had a good home, a loving wife and a good son and daughter.

Other letters follow:

THINKS JOHN D. THE RICHER.

Dear "Richest Man Editor"—The civilization of mankind has progressed from its barbarous stage to its present height only through love—love of honor, love of money, etc.

Looking for a moment at this question you will say that the blacksmith is, of course, the richer man; but, after giving this question careful consideration, you will note that John D. IS, after all, the richer man.

A man who has worked himself up to his present height with many obstacles in his way and then to have reached the point of his ambition.

He looks back and sees his struggles for existence. Though every man seems to agree that the blacksmith is richer, still I would wager that they would accept John D.'s cash.

AGREES WITH MEYERS.

Richest Man Editor—I think Mr. Edward J. Meyers is quite right about being the richest man in the world. In my opinion health and love are real wealth; money cannot buy love and without love one cannot be happy.

MRS. ALBERTINA PROVOST.
22 Chestnut st., Providence, R. I.

BANGOR'S HAPPY COBBLER.

Richest-Man Editor—There is a man in the city of Bangor who has health, contentment and the trade of a shoemaker. The poor are his friends and he gives them aid and sympathy. Is of no particular religious belief, but believes in God.

When not in his little shop he is doing what good he can with limited means. Children love him. Animals trust him and a kindly word and pleasant smile in passing help many to bear their burdens.

His eyes are bright with the message of a happy heart. He once told me: "I would not change place with the richest man I know; I have enough for my needs and a little over to help others, and a clear conscience. I am the most contented man in Penobscot County. Can Carnegie or Rockefeller buy more with their millions?" This man's name is John Stinchfield.

MRS. HARMON.
No. 124 Winter street,
Portland, Me.

RICHEST MAN EDITOR.

The richest man that e'er could be
Is he who lives in unity—
Who always seeks his best to do,
Who's always gentle, kindly, true;
Who, grateful for the things he's got,
Doth not repine for what he's not,
Who, as a husband, father, friend
Will hold respect until the end.
Who loves the things of earth and air,
And helps the smallest griefs to bear,
Who, with a mighty will, and strong,
Turns [illegible] of anguish into song,
Whose [illegible]ence means a wealth of cheer,
Who knows not hatred, vice or fear,
If such a man as this there be,
He's richer far than Johnny D.

(MISS EMILY VAN CLEAF).
Sterling, Ct.

Richest Man Editor — Edward Meyers, living in Nebraska with a healthy wife, daughter and son, has just as much wealth as any rich fool who can't make life worth while in the great metropolis with its buzzing cars and wild excitement.

SAYS U. S. WILL NOT CANCEL WAR DEBTS

High Official of Government Declares Europe Can Afford to Pay

Washington, Feb. 25.—There is little prospect, immediate or remote, that the United States will agree to cancel any of the debts owed by European nations. This was stated by a government official in high authority.

Moreover, he expressed the opinion that foreign governments have put themselves in an exceedingly stultifying position by permitting even unofficial agitation to the effect that they are willing to avoid payment of their obligations if the United States will permit.

If the Allies can seriously undertake to collect fifty-five billion dollars from Germany, in addition to vast requisitions in the form of coal, iron and other resources, the official stated, France, the beneficiary of more than half this sum, can afford to pay long time obligations amounting to three billion dollars to the United States. With the exception of England the obligations owed by other foreign countries are not vast, and England should be able to pay within a reasonable time.

If the money is not forthcoming from foreign creditors, the official emphasized, it can come from only one other source, the pockets of the American people.

It was admitted that this administration had been subjected to unceasing "unofficial" agitation that the debts be cancelled and it was stated that such agitation will undoubtedly begin anew when the Harding administration comes into power.

POLAND IS PLACED UNDER MARTIAL LAW

London, Feb. 25.—Martial law has been proclaimed in Poland pending the outcome of the plebiscite in Upper Silesia, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Warsaw today.

LIGHT RATES TO BE CUT IN WORCESTER

Five to 10 Per Cent. Reduction Based on Cheaper Coal; Edison Co. Stands Pat

Worcester, Feb. 25.—The Worcester Electric Light Co. will give its customers the benefit of lower coal prices through a reduction of its rates for power.

Although the move means accepting a loss on coal purchases already made, the company has decided on this course because of the present cost of coal.

Beginning March 1, cost of electricity will be reduced between 5 and 10 per cent., the larger consumers getting the greater reduction. The coal now on hand cost the electric light company an average of $10.54 a ton. The new power rate is fixed on a basis of $8.40 a ton, which the company estimates as the present market value of the fuel.

SOLD ON SLIDING SCALE.

Like the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston, the Worcester company sells its power on a sliding scale based on the cost of coal. One and one-half mills has been added for each single dollar advance in coal above the base of $4 a ton. Customers have been paying this extra cost on a $6 advance or nine mills above the base which ranges from 2 cents a kilowat hour for large consumers to six cents for the small users.

On the new basis of $8.48 a ton for coal which the Worcester company voluntarily adopted, the decrease is about three mills per kilowat hour.

Worcester users of electric power will now pay 6 mills per kilowat hour as extra coal charges as compared with eight mills in Boston.

President Edgar of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston stated that this company had no plan for reduction of coal charges under consideration at this time. When coal can be bought cheaper, he said, the saving will be passed along to the consumer.

"We believe that we have bought coal much cheaper than the average large consumer," he said.

CITY PLANTS SELL CHEAPER.

Municipally owned plants in Massachusetts sell electricity much cheaper than the large private corporations, according to their reports filed with the Department of Public Utilities at the State House. This, in spite of the limited consumption which engineers claim is a handicap to the small plant.

The town of Norwood is furnishing residents with electric power at nine cents per kilowat hour and makes no extra coal charge.

A telegram of inquiry sent by the Boston American to Chicago brought the reply today that the company furnishing that city with electricity adds coal charges to the bill of only one of its customers—the street railway company. On that contract the price of electric power varies with the price of coal.

In New York the extra coal charge is in existence. For every ten per cent. increase or decrease from the normal price of coal a charge of fifty one-thousandth of a cent is added to or deducted from the extra coal charge. At the present time the extra charge amounts to nine-tenths of a cent per kilowat hour.

Paris Actress Hounded by Persistent Ghost

Paris, Feb. 25.—Charges of intimidation and shadowing against "some spirit or spirits unknown" have been formally entered by the commissary of police in the sixth Paris ward following complaints made by Mme. Jeanne Even, one of the most famous actresses at the Comedie Francaise.

"For two years," stated Mme. Even, "I have been followed by a hooded and masked individual which I at first believed was flesh and blood. Then one day I turned abruptly and challenged him and he melted away before my eyes. That night I saw him in the darkness of my chamber; he was the first thing I saw when I awoke, and since he has been ever present.

"Recently I was playing opposite M. Fazeneuve on the stage of the Comedie Francaise. All of a sudden Fazeneuve disappeared and my follower stood in his place. I was ill for a month from the experience."

The affair has excited enormous interest in the theatrical world because Mme. Even, one of the greatest tragediennes of the day, has never appeared to be other than normal. Her explanation is that someone who hates her has "conjured up" the ghost with the object of worrying her to death.

'White Way' Offered a Gift to Lawrence

Lawrence, Feb. 25.—That the city of Lawrence will be literally made a present of a "White Way" by the Lawrence Gas & Electric Company operating franchises here, was stated by Mayor William P. White, following a conference between the chief executive of the city and Agent Fred Sargent of the gas company.

It is said that the directors of the latter concern at a meeting in Boston recently agreed to assume the cost of the new lighting system which will be in the vicinity of $70,000. The city will pay an annual sum for service. The White Way will be installed on Essex street from Union street to Broadway and will be extended later. Work will begin shortly on the project.

Watson Thanks the Boston American

Editor Boston American:

Permit me to convey to you my grateful thanks and appreciation for the helpful assistance rendered the "People's Cause" through the widely-read columns of the Boston American in my effort to secure justice and fair treatment for the electricity and gas consumers.

Independent of the fact that I have facts, figures and the support of a large number of the citizens of Boston, I would, indeed, be helpless in accomplishing any considerable amount of good without publicity, and this the Boston American has generously given.

You may not be aware, but it is a fact, nevertheless, that the publicity given my remarks in the press, and in particular in the Boston American, both on the question of the attempt by the Edison Company to secure the passage through the Legislature of a bill to permit it to capitalize its premiums and the mulcting of the consumers of electricity by the same company under its "Coal Clause" has resulted in a discussion by certain members of the State Senate as to the real purpose of the legislation, which may result in a modification of the measure or perhaps its defeat.

Again thanking you for the assistance already given and for that you may give in the future, I remain

Sincerely yours,
JAMES A. WATSON.

Church Wine Kickless, Thieves Warned

Burglars who break into Baptist churches or parsonages seeking forbidden fruits in the form of communion wine, will acquire a "lemon," according to the Rev. Dr. Austen K. de Blois, D. D., pastor of the First Baptist Church, Clarendon street.

Dr. de Blois, whose study was recently ransacked, announces to the world and prospective wine thieves in particular, that only unfermented wine, or grape juice, is used for communion by Baptist churches in Greater Boston.

MINISTER LEADS CONCORD HUNT FOR VETERAN

Missing New Hampshire Man Last Seen Friday Near Crystal Quarry

Concord, N. H., Feb. 25.—Led by Rev. Charles E. Clark, pastor of the First Methodist Church, a party of citizens of this city today renewed their efforts to find some trace of Charles F. Strainge, World War veteran, Mason and Odd Fellow, who has been missing for one week.

A clew, the only one the searching parties have been able to find, came from Alonzo Potter, foreman at the Crystal Quarry, who reported having seen Strainge late last Friday in the woods near the quarry. It was shortly after 5 p. m., Potter stated, and he was on his way home after his day's work, when he met Strainge, running through the woods.

WAVED HAND TO HIM.

Potter says that Strainge merely waved a welcoming hand to him and then plunged into a side road and disappeared.

Today Potter took the searching party, headed by Rev. Mr. Clark, to the spot in the woods where he had last seen Strainge, and the hunt started from that point.

Friends of the missing man believe it is quite possible he has fallen into one of the abandoned quarry pits, which are scattered about in the region where the search is being conducted.

Friends of Strainge fear he will never been seen alive again. It is asserted that, although he managed to keep the affair a secret even from his closest acquaintance, he was in love with a young woman in Manchester, who recently became the bride of another man.

UNDER HEAVY DEBT.

It is also asserted the missing man last Summer made a number of bad investments, and that he had been forced to assume a heavy debt.

At the office of the De Mulpied-Lult Furniture Company, where Strainge was employed as chief clerk, it was said that the missing man's accounts are in good shape.

Strainge served overseas with the Yankee Division and was wounded and gassed. Recently he has been complaining of feeling the effects of his injuries.

HOSPITAL FUND GETS PLEDGES OF $263,000

Loving Cup to Be Awarded to Winning Team in Deaconess Campaign

The campaign for the $1,000,000 for the New England Deaconess Hospital is on in full swing today, with 450 workers, captains and directors engaged.

The workers have been divided into sixty-three teams and five men's and four women's divisions. John K. Allen is leading the men and Mrs. T. C. Watkins the women's division.

Flags will be awarded daily to the team obtaining the largest number of subscribers. These flags will bear the inscription "We are there." A loving cup has been offered by Horace A. Carter, general chairman of the drive, for the team winning the highest percentage.

Final instructions were given to the workers at a luncheon held in Ford Hall. This was the first of the daily gatherings that will be continued throughout the twelve days of the campaign.

Progress of the gifts will be marked at each luncheon on a huge chart. Gifts to the fund already have passed the $263,000 mark, and the Methodist Centenary Fund has promised to contribute another $100,000 on condition it is in a position to do so at the end of the drive.

One of the features at the first luncheon was the demonstration of the correct way to solicit contributions for the fund, made by Harold Whitehead, professor of salesmanship at Boston University.

CO-EDS RESTRICTED IN WEARING ARMY PANTS

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 25.—Army breeches, flannel shirts and V-necked sweaters are denied the fair co-eds for general wear at Syracuse University in the latest edict from the office of Dean Marie Richards. The girls are angry, more so than when smoking was proscribed a few weeks ago. The girls are allowed to wear the male attire for sports, but they must never appear so clothed west of Archbold Stadium or north of Waverley avenue, Dean Richards decrees.

OBJECTOR REFUSED CITIZENSHIP PAPERS

Springfield, Feb. 25.—Judge Lawton in the Naturalization Court here has denied citizenship papers to one conscientious objector and two alleged draft evaders. Carmelo Nicti was drafted during the World War, but declined to wear a uniform. Dortan Omatron and Guiseppe Onesti were alleged to have dodged the draft when called.

John C. Brooks Dead

John C. Brooks, reputed to have made a million dollars in the retail grocery business on Beacon Hill, is dead at his home, No. 12 Joy street. He was a veteran of the Civil War. Funeral services will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

The young couple, both of whom come from Winthrop, were married very quietly at the bride's home, and are now spending their honeymoon in New York State.

Mrs. Greene, who was formerly a member of the class of 1922 at the Boston University College of Liberal Arts, has been employed since last Fall in Red Cross work. She was a member of Gamma Phi Beta national sorority and is the third of her sorority sisters to be married since last August. The young bride was prominent in the social life of the college while she there, and was noted for her beauty and talent as a dancer.

Mr. Greene is employed as secretary for a large firm in New York city, where the couple will make their home.

From $8 a Week to Head of Irish Army

By International News Service.

Dublin, Feb. 25.—Michael Collins, "commander-in-chief" of the Irish Republican army, who is being sought by a great British army in Ireland and a vast force of secret service agents, was an $8 a week bank clerk in London before the war.

Collins came to Ireland to join the British army when the Sinn Fein rebellion occurred at Dublin in 1916. He joined forces with the Irish Republicans, however, being an Irishman by birth and a Republican by sentiment, and rapidly rose in the councils of the Sinn Fein until he stands at the head of the military organization and really outranks De Valera in power and influence. British officials declare that if they could capture Collins they believe the militant campaign of the Sinn Feiners would soon collapse.

MAYOR APPEALS FOR LESS AUTO HIRING

It costs the city of Boston $4,000 to $5,000 a year for the hire of automobiles for heads of departments whose positions do not rate an official machine, according to Mayor Peters. He has issued an appeal for economy along this line. He states that much of the hiring would be eliminated if department heads with machines would once in a while cooperate with officials who do not have them.

DAIRYMEN TO PROTEST IMPORTS FROM CANADA

Representatives of five of the largest New England dairy interests have decided to appoint a regional committee to prepare statistics for Congress and thus obtain better protection of the industry in the six States. The dairymen claim New England producers are most affected by foreign competition in imports of milk from Canada and butter from Denmark and Siberia.

NEW INDEMNITY PLAN FRAMED BY GERMANS

Berlin Cabinet Meets Tonight to Approve Proposals of Fifteen Experts

Berlin, Feb. 25.—A full cabinet meeting was called for this evening to approve the counter proposals on indemnity which have been drawn up by a committee of fifteen experts. So secretly has the committee conducted its work that it is impossible to forecast the contents of the indemnity memorandum that will be presented to the allies when the conference opens in London early next month.

Dr. Walter Simons, the foreign minister, who will head the German delegation at London, will leave for the British capital tomorrow. The rest of the delegation will depart on Sunday. The delegation will comprise at least sixty members, both official and unofficial, the latter including seven newspapermen. In addition to Dr. Simons other members will be Dr. Von Simon, Herr Goeppert, General von Seeckt and Charles Bergmann, head of the German delegation in Paris. Dr. Simons will be the only German minister in the party. All the other members of the cabinet, including the chancellor, will remain in Berlin.

Political leaders have adopted a "hands off" attitude in order not to put any embarrassments in the way of the government.

Whether the financial and industrial magnates who helped draw up the counter proposals will go to London was to be decided at the cabinet meeting this evening. Among the men of affairs who worked on the committee were Hugo Stinnes, Herr Kramer and Herr Kuno.

PLUNKETT TELLS HAPGOOD CARSON FEARS LABOR

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Editorial Correspondent of Boston American.

Washington, Feb. 25.—You could travel all over Ireland and scarcely find anybody who would deny that Sir Horace Plunkett has done more for that country than anybody now living. As Sir Horace is a old friend of mine, and as he has been passing through Washington, I got after him to clear up some things in that tragic situation. When Sir Horace makes his annual trips to this country he likes to think of himself as a cow-puncher, for the ten years he spent out West in cattle-ranching are warm in his memory, and he has maintained his business interest in that occupation ever since. His life work, however, has been building up the co-operative movement in Ireland.

Norman Hapgood

About forty of the creameries belonging to that movement have been injured in the present reprisal methods, thirty of them being destroyed altogether. The excuse given was that these creameries were being used in a military way on the Sinn Fein side. Sir Horace is a mild man, but he commented on this as follows: "It is a lie. Nobody in our employ has anything to do with politics. He could not keep his place a day if he had. And the government knows it."

"The centre of the crime is in London more than in Ulster. Carson is in no real sense an Ulsterman. He has for many years been a big corporation lawyer in London. He and the big British interests behind him have established a control over Lloyd George, who could not remain in power without their support.

"In Ulster also the dominating considerations are neither political nor religious, but industrial. Inside history proves this. First nine counties were included in the claim of separate government for Ulster. Three of those counties are overwhelmingly Catholic and in favor of a united island. So it was finally admitted that these counties ought to be left out.

Carson Is Fighting Against Labor Control

"Two of the remaining six counties, however, are about fifty-four or fifty-five per cent. Catholic, and the argument was naturally made, therefore, that a vote should be taken by separate counties. Carson opposed this, pretending that the reason was that he was oppposed to a division based on religious differences.

"That was a mere pretense. His real reason is significant. Under the law now on the statute books elections will be held next Spring for two separate parliaments. The one for Ulster will begin a session in June. If only the four really separatist countries were included, it is probable that a labor government would be formed by an industrial sympathy between Protestant and Catholic labor.

"That is what Carson and his friends are really afraid of. He insisted on the two extra counties because they are agricultural instead of industrial and he hopes by their help to prevent labor control."

"Why is Lloyd George able to put such a policy over on the British people?" I asked.

"His strong card is military and naval fear. He and the Irish Republic people are in the result working together. If it were a question of dominion independence he could be beaten and the Irish people would have control of everything except the army and navy.

Possibilities for Dominion Government

Is there hope? Sir Horace sees a few good signs. Lord Robert Cecil has gone over to the opposition and if a coalition were successful between labor, the more advanced Liberals and a few Tories following Cecil, the Irish would then believe in the new governments good faith and would accept a dominion status, with the army and navy aspect suited to the special proximity.

SELF-PRESERVATION JAP POLICY, SAYS IYENAGA

Japan would be only too glad to curtail armament, but America must take the initiative, Toyokichi Iyenaga, former secretary to the Japanese minister of foreign affairs, declared at the Boston City Club forum. The speaker, at present director of the East and West News Bureau in New York, added that fundamentally Japan's Asiatic policy is the policy of self-preservation.

BERNSTEIN DECLARES HENRY FORD DUPE OF ANTI-SEMITICS

carefully, that he had also studied the writings of Dr. Theodor Herzl, the founder of modern Zionism, and he believed that it was the work of Dr. Herzl.

The manuscript he gave me was a translation of the so-called "protocols of the wise men of Zion," which have since then attained considerable notoriety through the efforts of the Jew baiters in Europe, in this country and even in Japan.

He told me that, according to the introduction, the "protocols" had been stolen by an unknown woman somewhere in France from the archives of the "wise men of Zion," and that they finally found their way into the hands of a "Russian mystic," Sergius Nilus, who published them as a chapter of his religious book on the antichrist.

He said that the "protocols" contained an outline of a universal conspiracy by the Jews for world domination, and that it seemed to him that Bolshevism in Russia and the revolution in Germany had been planned years ago by the Jews who sought to destroy the world.

The agent of the military intelligence department informed me at the time that the "protocols" had been submitted to a number of prominent American officials in Washington, and though some of them at first were inclined to pay no attention to the "document," they were amazed when they found in present chaotic conditions the fulfilment of the "protocols" which had been published in 1905.

I examined the manuscript and told the agent of the military intelligence department that the "protocols" were obviously a forgery.

HEARD OF IT EVERYWHERE.

I went to Europe again, as a correspondent of American newspapers at the peace conference. I travelled through various European countries, and everywhere I heard about the same newly discovered "protocols of the wise men of Zion." In Paris English translators of the "protocols" offered the manuscript to certain prominent Jews for sale, with a promise to suppress its publication in England. The Jews, of course, refused to enter into any such arrangement.

Suddenly the "Protocols" made their appearance in Berlin towards the end of 1919. About two months later they appeared in England under the title of "The Jewish Peril." Then the morning Post of London started an anti-Jewish campaign based upon these "Protocols." In 1920 an American edition was brought out in Boston, and afterwards the "Protocols" sprang up in Japan, in Finland, in the Scandinavian countries and in France. Recently another edition was published in New York.

WELL-ORGANIZED CONSPIRACY.

It was clear that there was a well organized conspiracy, after the World War, against the Jews who were blamed for all horrors under the sun, attacked on the one side as the founders of capitalism and on the other as the leaders of Bolshevism.

I then undertook an investigation of the so-called "Protocols" and of the organizations that were employing these "Protocols" as the basis for their new international crusade against the Jewish people.

I have found indisputable documentary evidence of the fabrication of the "Protocols," which will be published next month in my book entitled "The History of a Lie." I have also found absolute evidence that the "Protocols," which failed to attract any attention when they were published in autocratic Russia in 1905 because of their astounding absurdity, were resurrected in this country by Russian reactionaries and Monarchist officers who are endeavoring to transplant the destructive seeds of the Russian Black Hundreds upon American soil.

STARTED TRANSLATION.

Early in February, 1918, Lieutenant Boris Brasol, a Russian officer, called the attention of a Russian American young lady employed by the agent of the American military intelligence department to the so-called "protocols," and asked her to inform her employer of the contents of the "document" as being of great importance in view of the Bolshevist activities in Russia.

The young lady told the American physician about the "document" and said that she had access to it. She asked for time to translate it into English. During the two months she was engaged on the translation of the "document" Lieutenant Brasol and General G. J. Sosnovsky were in conference with her concerning the manuscript.

During that time a characteristic episode occurred. The American agent of the military intelligence department came to the young lady with important news. He said that he had just learned from Russian sources that the assassin of the Russian Minister of the Interior Sipiagin was a Jew. As it was mentioned by Nilus that Sipiagin knew of the existence of the "protocols" and insinuated that he was murdered on that account, the information that his murderer was a Jew would be conclusive proof that the "protocols" were of Jewish origin.

WOMAN DOUBTED.

The Russian-American young lady, who is familiar with Russian revolutionary history, laughed at the American agent's information and assured him she knew that Balmashev, the student who assassinated Sipiagin, was a Gentile and not a Jew.

Who is this Lieutenant Brasol, the Russian who first revived the "protocols" in this country?

"Boris Brasol is a graduate of a Petrograd law school. He was a lieutenant in the Reserve of the Guards under the Czar. He subsequently served as an official in the ministry of the interior, which in Russia is in charge of the police department. Then he served in the Department of Justice under the notorious Anti-semite Scheglovitoff. Brasol's position was that of a special investigator in extraordinary matters. He was also connected with the Imperial investigation commission. His particular mission was to investigate the conduct of officials under suspicion. He was one of the prosecutors during the early stages of the Mendel Beilis case which was staged by the Russian Department of Justice and by the Black Hundreds to justify Jewish massacres in Russia.

ON WAR TRADE BOARD.

"It is understood that Brasol, who came to this country in 1916 to investigate the Russian military mission, has worked also in the legal department of the American war trade board and that he was doing special work for the Department of Justice under Attorney-General Palmer. It is believed that Brasol's views were consulted in the Department of Justice with regard to Russian affairs and the radical movement in this country."

Thus we see the hand of reactionary Russia, of the Black Hundreds, whose program was Jew-baiting, stretching across the Atlantic, resurrecting long-exploded myths for the purpose of corrupting and poisoning the public opinion of free America.

The "Documents" published under the auspices of the Tsarist government and the Black Hundreds, forged by Russian secret police officials for political purposes, were introduced in this country by a reactionary Russian official, circulated at first clandestinely among American public officials and submitted to the military intelligence department, the Department of Justice and other departments of our government. Some people in Washington discussed the "Protocols" at breakfast and at lunch, at tea and at dinner. The serpent of antisemitism was thus cunningly forced into the American capital by the Russian Black Hundreds.

PUBLISHED IN BOSTON.

Then Brasol's edition of the "Protocols" was published in book form in Boston. Some time afterwards, another edition was published by the Beckwith Company in New York, organised for the specific purpose of publishing anti-Jewish books. This "publishing house" used the text and comments prepared by the American physician, formerly connected with the military intelligence department. The authors' names are not given in these editions.

Henry Ford's Dearborn Independent worked hand in hand with the author of the Beckwith version of the "Protocols," as is seen from the fact that the Dearborn Independent in quoting portions of the "protocols" used his version before it appeared in book form.

Henry Ford has founded upon forged documents his stupid and venomous propaganda against the Jews. Henry Ford has become the dupe and co-worker of the darkest elements that disgraced and discredited the Russian autocracy and that are now trying hard to disgrace America.

RUSSIAN CHURCH PLOTTER.

It is also believed that someone prominently connected with the Russian church mission in America has been instrumental in spreading this anti-Jewish propaganda in the United States.

In New York there were recently formed two Russian organizations, "The Russian National Society" and "The Association Unity of Russia." Lieutenant Brasol plays an important part in both organizations. He is the head of one society, and the vice-president of the other.

The officers of the "Russian National Society," which is asking Americans for financial assistance, and which recently appealed to the American Red Cross for $10,000,000 for Russian relief, consists of the following reactionary Russian officers: Lieutenant-General C. V. Sakharoff, chairman; B. L. Brasol and L. A. Shoumatoff, vice-chairmen; A. I. Kalpashnikoff, treasurer and V. V. Golokhvastoff, secretary. In their literature appealing to Americans for financial aid they camouflage their antisemitic agitation under the pretext that they are merely combatting Bolshevism.

Thus they write:

"Bolshevist Russia casts a tremendous shadow upon the rest of the world and as long as that country remains under the immoral, alien rule of a Communist gang, the rest of humanity will be threatened by the menace of a formidable social catastrophe."

In their by-laws they state their aims in part as follows: "To carry out all kinds of commissions received from the anti-Bolshevist leaders and represent them over here in compliance with their instruction."

(It should be remembered that this society has nothing in common with the Democratic anti-Bolshevist leaders.)

"To give every possible other support to the Russian anti-Bolshevist leaders and governments."

In a note the society adds that it "refers only to such anti-Bolshevist formations which are of purely Russian national character.

"The Russian National Society shall, as far as possible, keep a record of Russians living in the United States and newly coming into this country."

(This would indicate that they are organizing a Russian espionage system upon a large scale).

"Active members of the Russian National Society shall be only those Russians who belong to the original and fundamental population of Russia."

"Associate members can be American citizens—friends of Russia and sympathizers with the aims of the Russian National Society."

The "Association Unity of Russia" published recently a pamphlet entitled "Who Rules Russia?" in which it tries to show by means of falsification that Russia is now ruled exclusively by Jews, and that Bolshevism, which has as little in common with Judaism as it has with Christianity, is a Jewish movement.

TRUTH DISTORTED.

They also published both in Russian and in English a leaflet which they distributed widely, entitled "Who Are the Murderers of the Russian Tsars?" In this leaflet the truth is distorted again in the old-fashioned way of the Russian Black Hundreds.

"The Russian National Society" is issuing a bulletin in which the publications of the "Association Unity of Russia" are cited in order to convey the impression that these organizations are not directed by the same dark and mischievous elements which are doing in their own smaller way what Henry Ford is doing for them through his Dearborn Independent with the aid of his millions.

The thought has often been expressed that Bolshevism may unite Prussia to Germany and that such an alliance would become a grave menace to the world. Meanwhile Henry Ford has proved more successful. In his campaign of Judophobomania, the Prussian monarchistic anti-Semites and the Russian monarchistic Black Hundreds have united. Henry Ford, the "Pacificist and publicist, is working for the glory of all that was rotten both in Tsaristic Russia and autocratic Prussia.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Ladies! Try this! Darkens beautifully and nobody can tell—Brings back its gloss and youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

New Discovery Builds Flesh While You Wait

Animal Gland Treatment in Tablet Form a Wonder as Flesh and Strength Builder

Mrs. Esther Pleasant, who for the past five years has been in a hopelessly run-down condition, is now an entirely remade woman, having gained twenty-three pounds in thirty-five days, according to her husband, Mr. Timothy A. Pleasant, of 2 Marianna Street, Lynn, Massachusetts, and he says, "she looks, acts and feels 30 years younger."

Her apparent rejuvenation and remarkable gain in weight, Mr. Pleasant says, is due entirely to the famous new Animal Gland treatment which has created such a sensation lately in the treatment of general run-down conditions, anaemia, nervousness and wherever new strength and energy are needed.

When interviewed Mr. Pleasant said: "For the past five or six years my wife was so run-down that several times I surely thought I was going to lose her. She lost over thirty pounds and was so weak and frail that an hour's housework would often leave her completely exhausted for the rest of the day.

"She was tired out all the time and didn't have one bit of ambition. When she would sit down she would hate to get up, and was so nervous and fidgety that the least little thing would irritate her. But tired as she was she couldn't get to sleep nights. Some nights she would toss and turn for hours before she could get to sleep. Every so often she would have a splitting headache and it seemed that she didn't eat enough to keep a bird alive.

Amazing Results Shown

"Today you would never know she was the same woman. Just as soon as she started taking Animal Gland Extracts (as embodied in Glandex Compound) she began to improve. Now she is always hungry and can eat anything. Her weight has increased 23 pounds and she is off to sleep as soon as her head touches the pillow. She hasn't the least trace of her former nervousness, and no matter how hard she works it doesn't bother her a bit. Upon my word, she looks and acts and feels thirty years younger. Glandex Compound was a godsend to her and we are both glad of this opportunity of recommending it to others."

The reason so many of us grow old at forty and the reason men and women become thin, anaemic and run-down is because our ductless glands, which supply a vital secretion necessary to the proper building of our billions of muscle and nerve cells and the conversion of food into tissue, become unable to do their work. So to build up these glands what could be more natural than to go to life itself and use extracts from the glands of healthy and vigorous young animals to supply the substance needed. This principle in itself is not new—pepsin, which comes from the digestive organs of animals, has been used for years as an aid to human digestion.

No Risk Involved

Glandex Compound contains extracts from the glands of healthy sheep and cattle combined with iron and other health-builders, so it is really a double tonic. If you are thin and worn out and want to put on good firm flesh and become well and strong in every way start taking Glandex Compound today. You will have to wait but a few days for results and your money will be returned if you are not entirely satisfied, so you risk nothing. Glandex is for sale by all druggists.

DANIELS URGES SUPREMACY IN AIRCRAFT

Declares U. S. Navy Must Be First in Development of Every Branch

Copyright, 1921, by the International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 25.—The development of aircraft is the most vital single considerati[illegible] with which the American nav[illegible] as to deal, in the opinion of J[illegible]us Daniels, who on March 5 re[illegible] as Secretary of the Navy after [illegible]ht years of service.

"If I were coming in as Secretary of the Navy I would make the consistent note of my administration, sounding loud above everything else, the development of aviation," said the secretary.

"We have conquered practically all the natural forces except the air, and the day is rapidly approaching when we shall have conquered that. When that day comes, I should like to see the navy leading, even as it led in flying across the Atlantic."

When Mr. Daniels goes out of office on March 5, he will have served longer than any previous Secretary of the Navy. Gideon Welles, the only other secretary to serve two terms, lacked four days of equalling Daniels' record, having filled the office from March 7, 1861, until March 3, 1869.

Before coming to Washington Welles was editor of the Hartford Times. Daniels was and is editor of the Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer. Welles was in Lincoln's cabinet during the Civil War and in the reconstruction days which followed under Johnson. Under Daniels' guidance, the American navy reached its highest development and participated with honor in the World War conveying nearly a million of America's fighting men to France without the loss of a soldier.

"The future of the American navy depends upon the attitude of the Harding administration," said Secretary Daniels. "George Washington had no Secretary of the Navy and the time may come again when the navy will have no separate representative in the cabinet.

"It has been proposed [illegible] Dawes, I believe—that the War and Navy departments be consolidated. If the United States enters an association of nations permitting a reduction in armaments such a consolidation probably would be possible.

"If we don't go into such an association running the navy will be the biggest job in the Cabinet.

"I have no patience," he said, "with this talk of being the second naval power in the world. The American Navy must be second to none; it must be first, and I believe a majority of the people of America will not be content until it is."

Though Secretary Daniels believes the navy should be kept at a strength equal to that of the strongest nation, he does not advocate such sustained preparation in the army. The war, he says, has proved that a competent body of trained officers can convert the young men of America into an efficient fighting force in a comparatively short period.

"Your famous order barring wine from the officers' mess is said to have aroused a great deal of criticism among officers of the navy, Mr. Secretary. Have a majority of these officers come round to your way of thinking?"

"I should not say they had come 'round to my point of view' exactly," Daniels replied. "I should say that most of the officers of the navy, even those who were opposed to the order at the time, wouldn't go back to the old system if they could."

"If you had the job to do over again would you handle the Sims incident any differently?" Daniels was asked.

"When an officer is determined to break into print," said the secretary, "it is sometimes difficult to decide just how he should be treated. Many fine officers in the navy thought Sims should be court-martialed and urged me to do it. They believed discipline was hurt by the admiral's attack and at first I thought that might be true to some extent.

"Upon reflection, however, I am convinced that Sims did the navy little, if any, harm. The matter was fully aired, and the truth eventually became known both in the navy and out of it. If Sims had been court-martialed he could have posed as a martyr."

ALLEGED 'CHIEF' OF GAMBLERS INDICTED

Seven Others Under Charges in Chicago War on Racing News "Clearing House"

By International News Service.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—The foundations of national handbook gambling are tottering today, officials declared as the result of the indictment by the Cook County Grand Jury of Mont Tennes, alleged chief of the "syndicate," and seven others.

The seven include H. E. Argo lieutenant of Tennes, who chose jail some years ago rather than impart information about the Tennes organization; K. L. Morelock, manager of the General News Bureau, a central station for dissemination of handbook information, and James O'Leary, Chicago gambler and saloon keeper.

Tennes, known for years as "The handbook king of the Middle West," and reputed a millionaire, is charged with conspiracy under the old common law. His organization, the indictment charges, for years has been operating a national racing handbook and clearing house for returns. This was located a few days ago following a gambling house raid, during which the clearing house operator telephoned in the latest "returns."

The call was traced and Tennes' headquarters also was raided. The Tennes indictment, it is predicted, will cause another "general gambling war" here which may spread to every large city in the United States. Tennes now is at Palm Beach, but his friends expect the indictment will cause his return in a hurry.

The indictment of Tennes and associates is only the first step to rid Chicago of organized gambling State's Attorney Crowe announced.

SEE PROPAGANDA IN LEGION'S WARNING

George Washington Council, American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic, Roslindale, sees in an American Legion warning "British propaganda under the guise of Americanism." It has adopted the following resolution: "While the greater part of the officers of the George Washington Council have no need to further proclaim their Americanism, they having offered on the altar of this country their own flesh and blood, and believing that the rank and file of the American Legion will not permit their organization to be exploited as the tail of the British lion, we hope that they will not permit this British propaganda to continue."

Coolidges Going to Capital Monday

Northampton, Feb. 25.—Vice-President-elect and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge have decided to start for Washington Monday morning.

There have been several plans for a send-off on the part of the Northampton residents, but it looks as if no cannon would be fired and only a few of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge would meet at the Union Station.

The Chamber of Commerce has been considering a farewell celebration. Mr. Coolidge feels that Northampton has already done its full share. He said today that he would be glad to go to Washington as quietly as possible.

The vice-president-elect expects to have a chance to return to Northampton before the special session on Congress is called.

Hartford Official Said to Have Been Warned About His "Love Affairs"

By Universal Service.

Hartford, Ct., Feb. 25.—Humiliated by the request for his resignation as vice-president of the Phoenix National Bank, William B. Bassett shot and killed himself at his home here.

President Leon F. Broadhurst of the bank asked Bassett for his resignation on Wednesday, charging him with conduct unbecoming an officer of the bank.

Bassett complied with the request and has resignation was to have been placed before the directors yesterday.

Bassett had been warned six weeks ago, it was said, that his nocturnal affairs with society women here must stop if he was to retain his connection with the bank.

TURKS YIELD TO ALLIED TERMS TO END WAR

Greeks Must Cease Hostilities in Anatolia as Part of Program

By International News Service.

London, Feb. 25.—Definite progress towards ending the warfare which has been raging in Turkey for months was made by the Near East conference today.

The Ottoman delegates pledged Turkey to abide by the Allied Commission's decision regarding the future status of Turkish territory, on condition that the Greek army in Anatolia is not moved or reinforced.

The other Turkish conditions were that Smyrna and Thrace be administered internationally during the inquiry of the Allied Commission, provided that it is concluded in two months.

Both the Turkish delegations and the Greek delegates were present at St. James Palace. Premier Lloyd George, who was the moving figure of the conference, exerted all his persuasive powers to compromise the rivalries.

The Turks after rejecting parts of the treaty of Sevres (the Turkish treaty) promised to accept the rest.

Bekir Sami Bey, head of the delegation representing the Angora Nationalist government, consulted with his colleagues and then announced that the Turks were satisfied.

While Premier Lloyd George was reading the Turkish conversations Premier Kalogeropoulos of Greece sat listening to them. The Greek Premier said he was hourly expecting cabled instructions from his government at Athens.

Premier Lloyd George informed the Greeks that they must abide by the decisions of the allies.

WIVES WITH INCOMES MUST FILE TAX RETURN

The home's the thing in the eyes of the income tax law, according to Collector of Internal Revenue John J. Mitchell today. "If a married woman has an income separate from her husband she is entitled to file a separate return, but she is not entitled to separate exemption," said the collector. "She and her husband have a joint exemption of $2,000 plus $200 for each child they have under eighteen years old, or persons mentally or physically unfit whom they have to support. A married man, living with his wife and two children under eighteen has an exemption of $2,400. If there is voluntary continuous separation the exemption is not allowed."

ATLANTIC GULF IS ATTACKED AGAIN

Bears Start New York Trading With a Raid; Recovery in Second Hour

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were irregular in New York at noon after opening weak and making a recovery. The improvement began in the first hour, but was most marked in the second. At the end of the morning prices were below the best level. Short selling was resumed after the rally reached its peak. Trading was active, first hour transactions exceeding 160,000 shares. Call money opened at 7 per cent. Demand sterling was first quoted at $3.85½.

Issues to rally the most were Kelly Springfield, U. S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Sumatra and International Paper. Atlantic Gulf remained weak. Among stocks to show the largest gains were American Tobacco, Houston, Goodrich and Woolen common. They were up from one to two points at their highest.

RECEDED IMMEDIATELY.

Immediate recessions marked the movement at the opening, initial sales showing losses of from fractions to around three points. Atlantic Gulf was a bear target and Kelly Springfield was also subjected to concentrated attack. The latter issue began at a new low for the year. Sears Roebuck was subjected to enough pressure to send it off more than a point. Subsequently some other stocks suffered substantial losses. But the specified trio got especial attention from raiders. Wires from Palm Beach continued to convey orders to sell short. As soon as pressure was relaxed there was a rally and early losses were partly recovered, and the market got above the opening level. Most declines were small when the drive was under greatest headway. Rails were quiet and changed but little, as was the case with coppers.

Most of the trading was in industrials. Oils were weaker than steels. All active tires were down, except Ajax. It advanced more than a point. The predicament dissolution of its underwriting syndicate caused free selling of Kelly-Springfield.

DEFLATION TOO SLOW.

The stock market is said to be reflecting an unfavorable monetary situation more than anything else just now, although the generally adverse condition of business is the fundamental trouble. Liquidation is making slow progress and the credit strain is a little greater for the moment. The public has not resumed buying on a normal scale. This is partly because its purchasing power has been reduced, but perhaps it is holding off more because of instinctive belief that the greatest price slashing has yet to come. The opinion is beginning to prevail that more liquidation is necessary before business can strike a recovery stride. Copper, grain, cotton and some other commodities are still going down. What materials and goods held in stock are really worth in cash is a haunting question. This has inspired bears with renewed courage. They are selling now with a good deal of the abandon that characterized their operations at the close of last year.

Woolen Prices Slashed

Slashing of fabric prices by the American Woolen Company is said to have stimulated buying to such an extent that it has received all the women's wear business it can handle and will find it necessary to allocate orders. Sales of men's overcoatings were up to expectations. Prices were reduced 40 per cent. to 50 per cent., as compared with 1920 initial quotations. The range on women's wear was from $1.25 to $5.25 a yard and on overcoatings from $1.32½ to $4.50 a yard.

Wall Street Briefs

Up to February 21 the Cuban American Sugar Company had made 332,008 bags of sugar, as compared with 083,352 bags up to the same date last year.

The steamship Aquitania has arrived in New York with approximately $1,872,500 in gold from London.

Kardos & Burke of No. 32 Broadway, New York announce the opening of offices in the American Building in Baltimore. Mortimer L. Filford, formerly with Bond & Goodwin, is now in charge of their commercial paper department; Frank V. Brecks, formerly with the Equitable Trust Company, is in charge of their foreign department, and J. Greenwald, formerly with Marks & Graham, has been appointed assistant manager of their bond department.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Feb. 25.—The cotton market opened weak under heavy selling, first prices being 12 to 27 points lower. All months touched new low prices for the season. Bearish influences were weak cables, a lower stock market, another break in London. Liverpool and reports of a demoralized Manchester market. The South was the principal seller and there was further liquidation for speculative account. Local and Wall street shorts and the trade were active buyers on the decline, but offerings continued free and prices showed little rallying power during early trading. Opening prices were: March, 12.15; May, 12.60; July, 13.05; September, 13.55 bid; October, 13.70; December, 13.85.

More Typewriters Exported

Foreign demand for American typewriters is increasing. Last year they were sold abroad in eighty-four countries, including China. Export business of this kind amounted to $25,041,809, an increase of approximately a third in a year.

PRICES RALLY IN BOSTON TRADING

Local Market Shows Morning Improvement; Curb Off at Opening and Later

At the opening of the Boston market most stocks were off, but there was a little improvement during the first hour, and in the second gains about equalled losses. Trading was on the same small and narrow scale that has prevailed before this week. Losses ruled larger than gains, all forenoon advances being small. Coppers continued inactive and retained a heavy tone. Packing issues were steady, and early business in rails was confined to New Haven, which eased off.

Among issues to decline a point or more were Old Dominion, Agricultural Chemical preferred and General Electric. Small losses were sustained by Massachusetts Gas, New Haven, Ventura, Carson Hill, Nipissing, North Butte and Utah Metal. Among issues to advance fractionally were American Woolen preferred, Boston Elevated, Copper Range, United Fruit, United Drug first preferred, Eastern Manufacturing and Libby.

CURB PRICES LOWER.

The Curb had a weak start and grew weaker, increased losses being shown by a number of stocks before the morning was over. Initial trading was of moderate volume only and the market became even quieter later. The most prominent stocks at the outset were Boston & Montana, Manhattan and Texana. Early gains were made by Eureka, Jerome Verde, Randolph and Seven Metals, while weak stocks at the start included Allied Oil, Allied Mining, Boston & Montana, Crystal, Sierra Silver and Victoria.

At the end of an hour Boston and Montana was off 3 cents at 63 cents, Manhattan 1 cent at 10 cents, Texana 1 cent at 7 cents, Bagdad 1 cent at 17 cents, Denbigh 1 cent at 14 cents, Eureka 4 cents at 84 cents and Verde Mines 1 cent at 24 cents. Allied Mining was up 1 cent at 20 cents.

BALLOTING ON N. E. RAIL RELIEF PLAN

It is stated that letter balloting by trunk and Central Freight Association lines on the proposal that they pool $15,000,000 for the relief of New England roads is about completed and developments are expected within a few days. If an agreement is reached the plan will have to receive Interstate Commerce Commission approval.

Meanwhile the rate division proceeding at Washington has gone forward just as if the pooling proposition had not come up. The trunk lines and New England roads were given thirty days for filing of briefs and counter briefs following the oral argument.

The proposal is that roads west of the Hudson contribute to the pool for New England for a period of fourteen months, dating from January 1. The basis proposed is a certain percentage of gross freight revenues of the roads.

N. Y. EXCHANGE SEAT SELLS FOR $100,000

By Universal Service.

New York, Feb. 25.—A New York Stock Exchange seat sold for $100,000. This is a high record for the year. Two other seats changed hands, one of them bringing $98,000, the other being a nominal change. D. J. Pierce paid the record price for the seat of N. L. Carpentier of A. A. Housman & Co.

Copper Going Down

The price of copper is still falling. Sales for February shipment at 12¾ cents a pound delivered were reported yesterday. Little metal is being bought on either foreign or domestic account. Producers are more inclined to make price concessions to obtain the little business in sight.

Exporting More Rail Cars

This country is expanding its foreign market for railway cars, export shipments in December last being valued at $3,187,569 as compared with shipments amounting to $1,988,587 in November.

PLAN FOR STATE GUARD OF 10,000 DISRUPTED

Only 7,000 Available Under Proposed Cut of Appropriation to $680,000

Plans for recruiting the new Massachusetts National Guard to a strength of 10,000 men were disrupted when it became known today that the Legislature is intent on cutting the year's military appropriation from $1,000,000 to $680,000.

Under the latter appropriation only 7,000 troops will be available, and the military authorities will be compelled to cut out two regiments of infantry and reduce the complement of many of the inferior units, it is said.

MADE PACT WITH U. S.

A sub-committee representing the legislative committees on Military Affairs and Ways and Means has agreed that $680,000 shall be the maximum appropriation, despite Adjutant-General Jesse F. Steven's request for a million. In this demand Stevens was supported by the Military Commission appointed by former Governor Coolidge to establish the State's military policy in the period of reconstruction.

Under an agreement with the Federal government, the State was to recruit 10,000 men this year and to attain a maximum strength of 16,000 men by 1924.

The year's development contemplated four regiments of infantry, two regiments of artillery, a regiment of engineers, a medical corps, a squadron of cavalry, a supply train of six companies, an anti-aircraft battalion and a signal company. Many of these units have already been approved and accepted by the War Department.

Just what reductions will be made to bring the new Guard into the quota available under the decreased appropriation will be determined by General Stevens and the commission of military experts.

SOLONS SEE ECONOMY NEED.

The sub-committee of legislators is said to have taken the attitude that 7,000 men will be ample to meet the State's military needs and that the concern of the taxpayers in public finances must be considered. This plan of the sub-committee could be overturned by the Legislature but the members say it has already found official favor with the legislative leaders.

The sub-committee members are Senator Edward N. Dahlborg of Brockton, Representatives James Tracey Potter of North Adams, Henry H. Wheelock of Fitchburg, George G. Moyes of Waltham and Paul H. Hines of Boston of the Committee on Military Affairs and Representatives [illegible] Draper of Milford and Charles H. Hartshorn of Gardner of the Committee on Ways and Means.

40,000 ANSWERS RECEIVED IN MOVING PICTURE PLAYER TEST

The $5,000 Movie Play TITLE Test begins the day after tomorrow in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

You know what to do!

There will be a tremendous demand for the Sunday Advertiser everywhere in New England. Order YOUR Sunday Advertiser NOW.

Newsdealers, anticipating the increased demand so far as possible, naturally have increased their orders. But the "bad" old free-and-easy days in newspaper making and newspaper selling have passed. Newspapers nowadays are sold on a non-returnable basis. It is no longer possible to "sell all you can and send back what is left." The newsdealer places in stock only the number of newspapers he is reasonably certain to sell. Therefore—!

40,000 ANSWERS IN.

Forty thousand individuals packages of identifications tell the story of the success of the Movie PLAYER Test, recently concluded. Thousands more were shut out of the Test, early and late, through their failure to keep up with it from day to day. These readers were shy of the Test Pictures of several days.

Neither the Boston Sunday Advertiser nor the Boston American is in a position to fill orders for back numbers. Occasionally, the newsdealer may have them. But not always. There is only ONE way to be sure of your Test Pictures. That way is to place a standing order with the newsdealer for the duration of the new Test.

If you decide to "take a chance," fail to place an order for the newspapers and eventually have the same unhappy experience as many who dropped out of the Movie Player Identity Test, please do not blame the Title Test Editor. "A word to the wise."

EVEN MORE POPULAR.

The new Test promises to be even more enjoyable and more popular than the old.

Sixty Test Pictures (or drawings) will be printed on sixty consecutive days. The Test Drawing will be seen on week days in the Boston American and on Sundays in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

In todays newspaper you will find three "sample" drawings. Practice on them.

The Test Pictures, like today's "samples," will be pictures without titles. YOU are to write the missing titles.

And how will you do it?

Each and every Test Drawing will represent the title of a motion picture play which has been produced in the United States. Lists of these motion picture plays will be printed daily. Somewhere in these lists will be the correct title of each and every Test Picture. You will first study the Test Picture—there will be only one Test Picture a day—and you then will turn to the List of Titles.

Describing the entertainment thus, in a paragraph, makes it appear ridiculously easy. In reality it will be hard work.

A LIST TO PICK FROM.

For several days we have been printing sample pictures, to make the Test plain to everybody. The correct title of each of these sample drawings—including today's three—are to be found in this list:

Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway

If you can, there is no reason why you should not achieve success in the TITLE Test, which begins the day after tomorrow in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

$5,000 AWARD LIST.

With 40,000 Movie Player Test parcels before us we are reluctant to promise anybody much more than loads of clean, wholesome, innocent fun out of the Movie TITLE Test.

As a matter of fact, however, 219 of you will be paid in cash for what you accomplish. We can see one of you drawing down, at the end of the new Test, $1,000; another, $750; another, $500; a fourth, $400, and so on down the list to one thousand $10 and five hundred and fifty $5 bills. The complete List of Awards in the Title Test will duplicate the awards of the Player Test, as follows:

ONE FIRST AWARD	$1,000
ONE SECOND AWARD	750
ONE THIRD AWARD	500
ONE FOURTH AWARD	400
ONE FIFTH AWARD	300
ONE SIXTH AWARD	200
ONE SEVENTH AWARD	150
ONE EIGHTH AWARD	100
ONE NINTH AWARD	50
100 AWARDS OF $10 EACH	1,000
110 AWARDS OF $5 EACH	550

FOR LARGEST NUMBER.

The above awards will be paid—every one in cash—to the readers who send in at the end of the TITLE Test the largest number of correct titles.

In order to earn the $1,000 award it will NOT be necessary to have sixty correct titles. This First Award will be paid for the largest number of correct titles. That number may be not more than 50. Whatever it is, if it is the top number it will take the top award. And so in the case of each of the other awards.

Eighteen young women and four men are hard at work sorting the Movie Player Test mail. The director of Test Headquarters clings to his original estimate of 40,000 packages. Bundles which came along with less than sufficient postage—after all that the Movie Test Editor said on this subject!—fill several bags. These packages cannot be considered in the making of awards. (You might remember this in connection with the TITLE TEST contest.)

When the sorting has been completed, and the Director is ready to assemble his staff about him at desks and go to the work of writing and checking identifications, his staff will be increased by at least twenty. When he was asked today to say about how long it will be before we can expect the names of the 219 winners he said: "I see no reason to change my original statement. It will be all of five weeks. I realize that everybody wants to know the result as soon as possible. There will be no loafing. At the same time, everybody will agree with me that the most important things of all are Fairness and Accuracy."

Well, with Fairness and Accuracy nobody will find fault. At the same time, Mr. Director, a little speed. Step on it.

While we wait, let us enjoy the Movie Title Test.

Which means 219 more awards, and another $5,000.

It begins the day after tomorrow, in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Speak to Mr. Newsdealer.

UNIONS OPPOSE UNLICENSED ENGINEERS

Open Shop Plot Seen in Proposed Amendment Allowing Them in Power Plants

Members of the International Association of Steam and Operating Engineers and Firemen, as well as other affiliated unions, are laying their plans to fight to a finish the proposed amendment to the present law requiring the employment of licensed engineers and firemen only in all important power plants.

The measure will come up for hearing before the Legislative Committee on Mercantile Affairs in the auditorium of the State House on March 3.

In brief, it amends the existing law so as to permit employers engaging the services of non-licensed engineers and firemen under the charge of a licensed man.

Union officials and opponents of the bill insist that it is a step in the open shop propaganda which they assert is being carried on throughout the country.

They declare that if the Legislature passes the amendment and it becomes a law they are prepared to carry the whole question to the people of the State on a referendum.

George P. Abbott, a licensed engineer of Reading, who has collected more than 400 names to a protest against the proposed bill, said today:

"The backers of this measure are merely trying to hoodwink the public in order to carry on more effectively their fight against union labor and the safeguards which the present law has thrown about power plants by making it necessary that skilled men only be employed in them."

BRITAIN WOULD DESERT JAPS, SAYS TIRPITZ

German Admiral Declares Nippon Has No Illusions Over War With the U. S.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Boston American Staff Correspondent.

Berlin, Feb. 25.—"Rule by the will of the people expressed wholly through a majority irrespective of its intelligence as against the will of the lesser but more intelligent classes will bring destruction eventually to any people or any nation."

That is the opinion of the "father of ruthless submarine warfare," Grand Admiral Von Tirpitz. It was expressed by him in a speech at Hamburg a few days ago and only became public today.

The speech is regarded as one of the numerous signs that Tirpitz is coming to life again from his long retirement in the Black Forest. His friends say that ambition is reawakening in the former head of the German navy and that he is preparing to play a political role.

FRANCE VASSAL OF ENGLAND.

Reviewing the situation of Germany and of Europe in his speech, Tirpitz said:

"England has in fact attained supreme dominion over Europe at this time. France itself is in the position of a vassal to England. England's dominion stretches beyond Europe and takes in all of Africa. She can seize the French North African colonies whenever she wants them. Her control extends through Mesopotamia to India, and she wants still more.

"The more England gains the hungrier she gets."

Discussing Germany's future policy Tirpitz declared that he considers the apparent leaning of the country toward the East as the proper [illegible] but says that no one can say how long it will be before Russia overcomes Bolshevism and again becomes a state.

WILSON UNREPRESENTATIVE.

"Against that possibility, however, is the fact that we feel the bloody iron heel of France the most and cannot endure it forever. England needs France's sword and her pathological sentiment for other purposes, however. England paddles back and forth between America and Japan, but she has France in hand and does not know when she may need France again.

"The policy of President Wilson must not be considered as being the policy of America. There is a difference which we must not lose sight of.

"I have been in contact with a number of high statesmen in Japan and I know that these Japanese complain that the permitting of the destruction of Germany was an act of poli[illegible] not believe that we could be so badly defeated. Today they say 'We would like to be with you today, but in your situation you are of no use to us—you are no longer a power.'

JAPS HAVE NO ILLUSIONS.

"Therefore the Japanese must hold to England, but they have no illusions but that in case of conflict with America, England would, in all probability, abandon Japan."

Touching upon Germany's internal politics, Tirpitz said:

"I hope that in connection with the idea which has led to the creation of the National Economic Council, a counterbalance will be created to the purely majority domination which we have for the moment, and which, according to personal conviction, will bring all culture and every people in ruin."

What Boston Does With Its Foundlings

What was the great world going to do with him?

That was the pressing question, if only he could have known. But he was too small to bother, since the biting present need was all that worried him. For he was without friends in a whole big city. He was without relatives, at least relatives who cared to make themselves known. He had no home. He was hungry. He was cold. Also he was practically without clothes. And he was deserted of man.

Just half an hour before his mother had taken him to the church in the darkened street. There she had left him, alone, a poor little wretch, just two months old. Now, at two months, a young man is not fitted to fight the world. So this little soldier lifted up his voice and cried, cried loud, bitterly, with enthusiasm, vim and gusto. A passing policeman heard him, all in the good city of Boston, at St. Stephen's Church, of a dreary night, and took him up and carried him to the Chardon Street Home. Where he was registered as one of the city's foundling children.

Which raises the question: "Of all the little wayfarers found deserted in Boston every year, what is the subsequent history? What becomes of them? How do they fare? Whose business is it to look after these little citizens who cannot look after themselves? Where do they go? What's the story?

IN HANDS OF FRIENDS.

Just ask Miss Eunice A. Miller, of the Department of Public Welfare, Division of Child Guardianship, or Father George P. O'Connor, of the Catholic Charitable Bureau, and you will find that such children, though deserted, are still not without friends. For great society, of state, city, private institution and church, is ready with its comfort, so soon as the little citizen has raised his baby wail for help.

"What do you do?" was the question first put to Miss Miller.

"We, of the Division of Child Guardianship, find the abandoning mother, if we can, first of all," explained Miss Miller. "It is a crime, in our state, to abandon a child, and we bring the crime home to the responsible, by all the ways we can." Then came the specific instances.

"She was a young mother of nineteen," the story ran. "She was married. But baby coming only two months after an elaborate wedding, made mother shame faced to have her family know. The young husband was making $45 a week, and there was a very nice home. But the gaunt fear of what the neighbors would say haunted the girl, and she came down to Boston, to a hospital, where she asked a kindly appearing woman to hold her baby. The woman did. The mother left and never came back.

"The case was referred to us. It was comparatively easy for us to find the mother. When found, we secured a warrant and served it. The young husband furnished cash bail; the case was tried in Boston. It developed that the young mother had told her husband she had boarded the baby [illegible]. Well, of course, they had to take that baby back, and pick up [illegible] duty, like responsible citizens.

Here is the hopeful sequel of the story. On the way back from court they bought a baby carriage. That youngster is over a year old, today, and they love it devotedly. It has its place in the home. They wouldn't part with it for rare gold. It has won its way. And its parents see their duty go hand in hand with their devoted love."

ROUSES MOTHER LOVE.

It was here that Miss Miller explained two or three beliefs, proved to her by her work. "The actual, physical care of a little baby," said she, "brings out the mother love. If the normal girl and her baby are together the first year, you'll have a hard time separating them. By then she'll realize that her youngster is the biggest thing in her life. And, even the strongly sexed woman, will be kept from evil. She won't go chasing after men, for the baby will satisfy her sex instinct.

Which is one outcome that may await the little foundling, a meeting again, with his chastened mother. But what about the little fellow whose mother can't be found? What about the wee small soldier, whose mother, when found, is not fit to be trusted with him? What about adoption?

Miss Miller explained: "A foundling is an absolutely adoptable child, but not knowing his history, we do not offer him for adoption. Persons are so told when the inquiry comes up."

Then how fares it with the little foundling? "Barring adoption he becomes a State minor ward and is boarded out in a thoroughly investigated family. His board is paid. He is visited by the State's social workers. And, if he is fitted, even, to go to college, he is encouraged to go. There are several State minor wards going to college now and one of these won last year a prize of $150."

AT ST. MARY'S.

Father O'Connor of the Charitable Catholic Bureau, spoke for St. Mary's Infant Asylum children. "We get our little foundlings, through desertion of the fathers, through illness, through abandonment, death and drunkenness, through some slip-up of the child's moral guardian. The unmarried mother, poor girl, contributes many a small charge to us. We believe, with all good people, that the place for the child is with its mother, when the mother can be located, and made to come up to her responsibilities. For the baby helps to keep the mother straight. When she cannot, we believe in adoption, into Christian homes.

"The last year, at St. Mary's Infant Asylum, we had 563 children who secured foster homes. Of these, 281 were under three; 282 over three. We always have available 150 good foster homes, and we keep our children only till good homes can be found for them.

"But, to safeguard our little wards, every home is inspected; the parish priest makes himself thoroughly conversant with conditions, and then we visit, after the child is placed. This is our duty towards those most helpless of them."

SHOTS FIRED AS RUM THIEVES FLEE IN AUTO

Providence Watchman Detects Robbers Breaking Into Storage Warehouse

Providence, Feb. 25.—Four or five men broke into the People's Storage Warehouse on Allen's avenue during the night and made away with a quantity of alcoholic liquor. Entrance was gained by smashing a rear window.

George A. Miller, night watchman at the Mexpet Company plant nearby, saw the men jump in an automobile and he fired two shots at them. Patrolman Frank L. McKiernan also fired several shots at the speeding machine, and the burglars returned two shots. McKiernan believes that one of the men was injured.

An inventory of the stock in the warehouse was started today to ascertain the exact quantity taken and also to learn if any other property was stolen.

Envoys of European Nations Preparing to Open Negotiations for Funding Plan

By International News Service.

Washington, Feb. 25.—Foreign envoys will approach Mr. Harding and his Cabinet with overtures for funding of debts due this government soon after inaugural day. This was indicated by advices which reached the Treasury today.

Foreign governments which have not sent their spokesmen to Washington have their missions en route, and the prospect is that the principal allied governments will be ready to enter upon the debt parleys almost at the outset of the new administration.

From present indications the negotiations must of necessity be conducted by this government separately with the other powers. The British Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes, returned here several days ago, empowered to resume negotiations over the British debt. He has indicated to officials that he will defer making any further move until the next President has assumed power.

Both Italy and France will carry on at the same time separate conferences with officials both of the Treasury and State Departments.

The Italian Ambassador has been named by the Italian government to act in all negotiations. The mission representing the French government is expected within a few days.

Great Britain, France and Italy, according to reports reaching the Treasury, expect to convert the "demand notes" now held by the United States into long-time obligations with a reasonable deferment of interest payments. The tentative plan of the three powers is to spread the interest as it accrues over several years, adding the sums to the principal from year to year until rehabilitation in the three countries has reached a stage to warrant curtailment of the principal and interest.

Fall River Officer of Vessel Says Men Were Imprisoned and Stripped

Fall River, Feb. 25.—With the arrival of the City of Freeport, an oil tanker from Tampico, Mexico, Michael J. Finneran, of No. 32 Dover street, mate of the vessel, announced that twenty members of the crew were made prisoners while in Tampico by the Mexican police.

The men were taken to jail, stripped of their clothes, beaten and robbed of every cent they had, nearly one thousand dollars. The men were released following an appeal made to the government by the American consul at Tampico.

With their spirited hockey series deadlocked, each team having won one game, the sextets of Boston College and M. I. T. meet at the Arena tonight in the final and deciding game, and local hockey fandom is due to turn out in large numbers to witness the affray.

Because [illegible] Hughes, captain and cleverest forward of the Maroon and Gold lineup, is still suffering from an injured knee the Tech team is generally conceded the edge [illegible] contest, but that edge is held to be so slight that it may be overcome through exceptional play on the part of Hughes' team mates, and these team mates will enter the contest determined to offer just that sort of play.

Both teams have been [illegible] preparing for the battle and while the [illegible] and speed of the players may [illegible] that displayed by the Aura Lee team of Toronto, the rivalry and earnestness of the [illegible] the [illegible] of rival cheering [illegible] and the fact it is the deciding [illegible] series, should make the game one of the most interesting and exciting yet staged between college teams.

Secretary Schooley Quotes Hockey Agreement

In reply to a request from Tom Kanaly, New England Division representative of the United States Amateur Hockey Association, [illegible] Roy D. Schooley of [illegible] quoted the following [illegible] United States-Canadian hockey agreement as applicable to the [illegible] controversy:

"Section 5—Hockey players from Canada registered with Canadian amateur hockey associations as amateurs shall be accepted by the United States A. H. A. of the International Skating Union, and hockey players from the United States A. H. A. shall be accepted by the Canadian A. H. A. BUT IN ALL CASES THE PLAYER MUST PRESENT A PERMIT FROM HIS GOVERNING BODY.

"Section 7—EACH PARTY TO THIS ALLIANCE SHALL RESPECT AND ENFORCE ALL PENALTIES OF SUSPENSION AND DISQUALIFICATION IMPOSED BY THE OTHER PARTY."

Raymie Skilton [illegible] this agreement when he entered his team in the U. S. A. H. A., although his arbitrary stand on [illegible] case scarcely would [illegible].

Dufresne Case Not Only One of the Year

It would seem that the Dufresne case is not the only one in which the foregoing rules of agreement have applied, for according to the manager of the Aura Lee team which recently visited Boston, two former Pittsburgh players who were under [illegible] the U. S. A. H. A. and who went to Canada were ruled out of Canadian amateur hockey and are now playing with outlaw semi-professional teams while according to Secretary Schooley the Eveleth, Minn., team, which recently won the championship of Group Three of the U. S. A. H. A., attempted to introduce three Canadians [illegible] Dufresne and were refused permission to do so.

Downing's Return Will Bolster B. A. A.

Frankie Downing's presence in the B. A. A. lineup was sorely missed in the recent Aura Lee-Eastern clashes, and his return to the lineup in next week's games will be hailed with delight by both players and fans.

Dave Ingalls, who has been filling Frankie's position, is developing into a very able hockey player, but as yet does not possess the finish of Downing, nor has he developed the knowledge of [illegible] that Downing has [illegible] season. On several occasions in the recent Aura Lee contests [illegible] was caught napping when passes were sent his way and when the Aura Lee goal tender had been drawn out of position to oppose a shot coming from him.

Announcement of Championship Schedule Expected Soon

The schedule and playing details of the triangular fight for the national hockey title between the B. A. A., winner of the Group [illegible] championship; Cleveland, winner of the Group Two title, and Eveleth, winner of top honors in Group Three of the United States A. H. A. [illegible] within the next few days and as [illegible] be played [illegible] Arena [illegible] is a [illegible] information.

Although [illegible] for comparing the three [illegible] the Cleveland team is being named the favorite for the series.

Their Favorite Sport—and Why

No. 22

JAMES J. O'BRIEN,
Former K. of C. Overseas Secretary.

Walking has always been my favorite diversion.

I believe it is the most natural exercise and unlike many sports, is accessible to all.

Walking develops deep breathing and is conducive to good health. I have often walked twenty miles in an afternoon.

When Weston, then nearly seventy, made his record hike from Portland to Chicago, I walked ten miles of the distance with him through Boston, and it seemed like trying to keep up with a fire engine.

On that day he walked from Newburyport to Dedham. He seemed as limber as a college athlete, and his eyes were as bright as crystals.

Next to walking, my favorite sport is swimming and next tennis; both of these are invigorating and bring all the muscles into play.

A [illegible] schedule of games with other major league teams and with Texas League teams has been arranged as follows:

DUNDEE BOXES JACKSON IN NEW YORK

Old Lightweight Rivals Main Bout Performers at Tex Rickard's Arena

New York, Feb. 25.—Johnny Dundee and Willie Jackson will add another chapter to the story of their feud [illegible] at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The [illegible] between these [illegible] the new [illegible]

[illegible] defeat to carelessness, but [illegible] to get even with the Harlem boxer by returning the compliment.

Tonight's bout will be the ninth between these rivals and although they have fought many times they continue to attract interest.

Jackson With Youth on His Side, Is Favorite

Jackson with youth on his side is the favorite over Dundee in tonight's mill. The little Scotch Wop, with some ten or more years of ring experience under his belt, is showing up fast and though not a willing scrapper [illegible] kind of a rap that made him such a prime favorite a few years ago.

The last time Jackson and Dundee met was before the Manhattan A. C. [illegible] in November 1920. On that occasion Dundee won a draw from Referee McPartland after the judges had disagreed.

The verdict, however, was not a popular one, for Jackson had [illegible] piled up a comfortable lead in points.

Dundee Hot on Kilbane's Trail

If Dundee makes a good showing against Jackson tonight, regardless of whether or not he wins a decision he will take the trail for a bout with Johnny Kilbane.

Dundee claims he can make 124 pounds for Kilbane, weighing in at [illegible] and if Johnny will meet him at that weight he promises to post a substantial forfeit to make the poundage.

A meeting between Dundee and Kilbane would be nothing in the way of an innovation, for they have boxed several times before.

Shortly after he defeated Abe Attell for the featherweight title in 1912 Kilbane boxed Dundee in New York and was forced to set a fast pace in the final rounds of their ten-round encounter to win a popular decision.

At that time Dundee was classed as a second rater.

DARTMOUTH SEVEN BOWS TO ST. PAUL'S

Concord, N. H., Feb. 25.—St. Paul's School defeated Dartmouth, 4 to 1, in a hockey game here.

The schoolboys scored early in the first period while Tucks men evened up the count in the second. The school team scored heavily in the final five minutes of play and only the wonderful stops by Neidlinger prevented a larger tally.

How to Make Money in "Hard Times"

A secret of that "INDEFINABLE SOMETHING" that enables one man to push ahead and win while twenty others may fail

A man may be a great success in "good times" when the going is easy, but a COMPLETE FAILURE IN "HARD TIMES"—the man worth while is the man who can face the great depression of "hard times" WITH A SMILE and still win.

The constant worry, anxiety, stress and nervous strain that a man is under in "hard times" often saps his vitality, WEAKENS HIS BRAIN AND "WILL POWER" and takes the life and driving force out of his blood, without his fully realizing what has happened to him—he knows SOMETHING IS WRONG, that he is not GETTING AHEAD as he should, but he doesn't know why. IF YOUR BANK BALANCE IS NOT UP TO THE MARK; if things are not coming your way; look into your physical condition.

YOUR BRAIN CANNOT WORK RIGHT—think the thoughts that bring SUCCESS—when YOU LACK BODILY AND MENTAL VIGOR—a great business man has said that genius is nothing but a capacity for hard work—a wizard is generally a man who thinks longer and harder than the other fellow—that "indefinable something" that wins is often nothing more than an "IRON WILL" supported by IRON BLOOD.

IRON IS THE MASTER PRINCIPLE OF THE BLOOD and blood is life. It is the iron in your blood that carries oxygen to your brain. Without iron your brain gets no oxygen. Without oxygen your brain becomes dull and heavy; it cannot think right; YOU MAKE BAD DECISIONS; DO FOOLISH THINGS; YOUR INTELLECT IS POOR; YOUR memory often fails—no matter how smart you may be by nature, in your weakened physical and mental condition, YOU ARE certainly NO MATCH for the STRONG, KEEN, CLEAR HEADED MAN with plenty of iron in his blood. Although you may give two men the same fire arms or swords in a battle, the strong, vigorous fellow always has a decided advantage over a weak, tired-out opponent.

WITHOUT IRON YOUR BLOOD ALSO LOSES THE POWER TO CHANGE FOOD INTO LIVING CELLS AND TISSUE [illegible]

[illegible]

When you get up feeling tired in the morning [illegible] find yourself nervous [illegible] you can no longer do your day's work without being all fagged out at night or have pains across the back and your face looks pale and drawn, do not wait until you go all to pieces [illegible] like NUXATED IRON [illegible]

'TONY' MARSH HAS FAITH IN 1921 BRAND OF BOSTON BASEBALL

SAYS NEW MEN AID BRAVES

Maranville of Little Use During Past Three Seasons and Had to Go

By SAM CARRICK

There is at least one hopeful baseball fan in Boston.

He is John Marsh, better known as "Tony," and the official friend of the Boston National for more years than he might like to be reminded about.

"Tony" has watched Boston professional baseball almost since its inception and during that period has seen many diamond stars rise, blaze into full glory and then fade away. He has always been close to the club and possessed of considerable knowledge of what was going on on the inside, but at all times he has been a fearless critic wherever he thought there was anything to criticize.

He does not think Owner Grant is to be criticized for trading the Rabbit to the Pirates. On the contrary he applauds the act and adds that Grant has yet to make a [illegible] which worked to the detriment of the Boston team.

Says Rabbit Has Been Detriment to Team

"For the past three years, Maranville has been a detriment, not an asset to Boston baseball," says Marsh. "The Rabbit's heart has not been in his work and though he tried to play his game, he failed to [illegible].

"The men who have come to the Braves in exchange for the midget are young and have many years of good baseball in front of them.

"Southworth has already [illegible]. He is a fine outfielder, bats well and runs [illegible] with good judgment. Nicholson is a comer and will be a good man to have around even if he does not make a regular berth this season.

"Barbare will fit nicely into the infield [illegible] I think [illegible] and [illegible] key position for the former [illegible].

Holke and Boeckel Good Enough for Any Team

"To take up the other infield positions. How many men are there at first base [illegible] for whom you would exchange Holke? There are few, very few. And there are not more than two third basemen in the league who are any better than Boeckel, who was made the target for considerable abuse last season by some of the critics. Groh and Frisch [illegible] of thinking are the only ones who are better than Boeckel at the hot corner and they are not so far ahead of him at that.

"Ford is a coming shortstop who should never have played on second base."

Lewis Can Use Headlock Declares Plestina

New York, Feb. 25.—The headlock has a bad reputation, but that lets it out.

It is no more dangerous than any other hold used in wrestling despite the big hullabaloo that has been made over it recently. Take Marin Plestina's word for it.

Plestina is a big, capable and ambitious wrestler who has been on the trail of the world's heavyweight title for some months.

He has hurled defis galore at the Lewises, Stechers, Zbyszkos and other members of what he terms the "wrestling trust" without avail.

Now he comes out with a new offer.

"If Strangler Lewis will meet me I will permit him to clamp on the headlock and agree that the match shall not start until he gets it satisfactorily adjusted," said Plestina.

"To me the headlock is no more than any other hold. It simply has a bad 'rep,' that's all."

"I'm confident that I can beat Lewis or any of the 'trust' wrestlers and I will agree to meet any one of them and give my end of the gate receipts to any worthy charity."

J. C. Marsh, who manages Plestina, recently brought his big grappler back to New York after an absence of about a year to renew his campaign for a match with one or all of the members of the so-called "big four."

Job was somewhat of a bear when it came to patience but were he here today he could not [illegible] class with Plestina, who has been on the trail of the big wrestlers of the country for four years.

And Plestina [illegible] He [illegible] fight [illegible] wrestler who may [illegible] the Strangler.

"Plestina will donate his entire end of the receipts to charity in a bout with Lewis, Stecher [illegible] or any of the others," said Marsh.

"In addition I will give $1,000 to charity or any worthy cause the minute any of them sign up to meet Marin and get on the mat with him.

"If Plestina ever gets Lewis into the ring he will defeat him easily. He met Lewis once at Lexington, Ky., and threw him twice in forty-six minutes. He will do it again if he ever gets the chance."

CHAPTER XII.—Continued

"I HAD dinner with Oswald Quarters at the club just now," [illegible] Mr. Listerly. "He made it plain that we've got to [illegible]. We're to run it in a box [illegible] less than three columns wide across the middle line of page one tomorrow. All editions."

"Painter doesn't own the News," snapped Winterbeck.

"Only part of it, Frank. But with a word he could call our loans, tie up our next delivery of paper, throw us on the town."

"It wouldn't help him much to wreck the property."

"No, but he could install another publisher and another staff."

"I don't believe Painter'd stand for this. Why [illegible] him up?"

"Did that. Painter's [illegible]. He advised me to do what I thought right."

"That all?"

"No, when I pressed him he explained that he really didn't know a thing about it and that I'd better talk to Quarters. No, Frank, it's thumbs down. We can't help ourselves. I'm sorry to upset your plans."

He rose. He didn't seem to care much, was his usual casual, quizzical self.

Winterbeck reached for a sheet of copy paper, wrote his resignation, to go into effect the moment that the apology was sent to the composing room, and handed it to his chief.

It was after he had read it that Mr. Listerly gave his first faint display of feeling. It [illegible].

"Frank," he said, "[illegible] this. Think it over. You're taking it too hard. A newspaper, after all, is a piece of property. We have no right to make it a vehicle for our personal notions."

"Is that thing going down?" asked Winterbeck.

"Why, yes, we have [illegible] about that."

"Then you'll have to O. K. it yourself, Mr. Listerly."

Ten minutes later the city editor was gone for good and a man from the telegraph desk was sitting in his place.

Mr. Listerly sighed a number of times during the evening, but before midnight he had the great machine running [illegible] the thing he did [illegible] to get a new city editor. [illegible] had been [illegible] work [illegible]. In some respects the new arrangement would be a good thing. Frank had been taking a [illegible] lately anyway [illegible] would do him good.

The man Stafford was [illegible] on Mr. Listerly's [illegible]. He had lunched with Guard in New York and had listened to the verge of boredom, to the praise of that young man. Guard was ready to plan publication of the Cantey biography and was keen to give Stafford a try at the job. As a matter of fact Mr. Listerly, recalled he had promised to put this through. Guard couldn't hold him to it of course. Though he had been curiously insistent, had made quite a point of it. And the promise had passed. Mr. Listerly wavered during the evening in regard to it. He even sent out inquiries regarding Stafford, but the man had disappeared apparently off the face of the earth. No one had seen him for twenty-four hours. Abel Timothy, who had seemed interested to the point of curiosity, looked up the address Winterbeck had, an obscure boarding house, apparently, away out Peck avenue by the lumber yards. But a telephone inquiry brought out the fact that Mr. Stafford had [illegible] the evening before without a word. He had acted queerly on previous occasions. The [illegible] relieved to be rid of him.

Mr. Listerly decided then that the man by his [illegible] was [illegible] him from a [illegible] obligation [illegible] his chat with Guard [illegible] giving [illegible] thing over [illegible] wasn't an [illegible] boy was wild [illegible] safe if uninterrupted.

Guard had been rather extravagant, anyway.

At this point Mr. Listerly dismissed the Stafford person from his mind as a nuisance.

CHAPTER XIII.

The Tide of Life Runs Low

MARGIE DAW [illegible] bohemian blue [illegible] on her head her little felt hat; opened the door of her apartment. It was eleven in the morning. Miss Daw's day was about to begin.

A folded paper lay on the sill. Her name was on it, written in [illegible] a small even hand. [illegible] opened it.

"Dear Miss Daw," it read. "I'm ill here, and haven't a [illegible]. Would you be willing to send a doctor to 321?

"H. STAFFORD."

She stepped back into her [illegible] living room; pressed a finger to her lips. No note had lain there when she took in her morning paper an hour earlier. "He [illegible] must mean the [illegible] he had come."

She was glad he was ill [illegible] him quite in her hands. There were problems to be worked out. In her eagerness the other day she hadn't bothered to consider them. But now that he was unexpectedly, actually here. . . .

She went up to 321, on the floor next above, tapped softly, then tried the door. It opened. She [illegible] in and quickly closed it behind her. It was just as well not to be seen [illegible] in here.

It was one of the furnished apartments. There was a "golden oak" table, a stuffy upholstered chair, an ornate rocker, a picture or two—a print of an English cathedral, another of sheep on a road [illegible] a worn carpet rug. A [illegible] traveling bag stood open on a chair facing the window. This was awkward. She [illegible] a moment and heard heavy [illegible] breathing. He was in the bedroom. [illegible] She crossed quickly to the window and drew down the shade.

A photograph stood on the table [illegible] pretty girl of sixteen or twenty. She [illegible]. [illegible]

[illegible] fascinated her. It brought up in Miss Daw's [illegible] the whole story of the [illegible].

In the next room he coughed, a [illegible] cough.

She put down the picture, tiptoed [illegible] door. Hesitated, for Margie [illegible] mental experience [illegible] she had gone through in the rough game of newspaper work, was twenty-six, and was therefore at moments governed by [illegible] youth. [illegible] Then a [illegible] breath [illegible] her eyes very [illegible] advanced to the bedroom door.

He was stretched out in bathrobe and slippers, unshaven; longish hair [illegible] face. He was [illegible] fever [illegible]. And his [illegible] passages were clogged so that he breathed with difficulty. He went off now into a paroxysm of coughing.

His eyes [illegible]. He [illegible] seem to take in at first that she was standing [illegible]. Then he tried to speak.

She thought he said: "Oh, I didn't mean to [illegible] here."

"That's all right," said she. She was surprised [illegible] noted [illegible] stirring up.

She laid her hand on his hot forehead. It soothed him. She went then to the bathroom, wrung out a towel in cold water and laid that on his head.

"Looks like grippe," said she. "[illegible]"

His reply was a moan.

Then he said: "Will you tell them at the office?" And went into a fit of coughing.

With a tightening of her nerves and an even higher color she sank on the edge of the bed, sat there, pressed the towel about his temples.

[illegible] now he was [illegible] and final [illegible] about the room there was [illegible] of the morning paper. And he couldn't have seen here.

The public retraction, in its three-column box above the middle of page one, had made her wince. There had been a few moments of sheer disgust with the paper, with Mr. Listerly, with the city itself, during which she had considered as she usually did in such moments chucking it up altogether and going down to New York. There ought to be chances for an experienced and not bad-looking girl. There was, here and there in New York, some snappy, independent journalism. The town was bigger, the independent advertiser less imminent.

She decided now that he mustn't see that paper at all. Not at least, while he was down this way. [illegible] as not he'd go kill himself or something, and then where would she be, especially if . . . . [illegible] she knew, however exciting the [illegible] whatever difficulties it stirred up that she intended seeing [illegible] through. He must, just now, be cared for. And he must be protected from a world that he never had belonged in.

She rummaged through her wrist-bag.

"Now listen!" she said. "I'm going to send a doctor right up here. You'll need a nurse, too."

He seemed to protest at this.

"You've got to be taken care of. Please leave it to me. Somebody's got to get your food and things. And I'm going to leave my key here on the bureau. If you feel up to walking down the stairs again, I want you to use my rooms. The air's better there. I'll explain that to the doctor. And I'll look you up for a minute at supper time."

She returned to her own rooms and telephoned her doctor. It was characteristic that she did tell him that the sick man and the nurse were to have free use of her apartment. [illegible] accounted for him [illegible]. [illegible] the morning News in a [illegible] drawer.

If one is not forthcoming [illegible] shakes his head and says: "Well, I'll use one of my own." He always has plenty, but let anyone ask him for a cigarette and he replies: "For the love of Mike don't you ever buy any yourself?" The same is true in the case of matches. This is the honest description of a real live person.

Practical Illustration

A Bishop took the chair at a parochial "at home," where an impromptu concert was part of the program. The right reverend chairman called upon a certain lady to sing. She demurred, saying she could not sing. The bishop insisted, and at last the lady consented. She had not gone very far before it was evident that the lady was right, and that she knew her own vocal powers best. The audience wondered what the good man would say for himself after insisting upon such an infliction. The bishop was, however, equal to the occasion. When the song was over the worthy chairman got up, reached the lady his hand to lead her down from the platform, saying, as he did so: "The next time you tell us you can't sing, we shall know whether to believe you or not."

CHAPTER XXVI.—Continued

THEN it came to [illegible] two young [illegible] the face [illegible] Mrs. Ferguson [illegible], and who [illegible] gazed afterwards. His grave expression relaxed into a smile, and he took the young [illegible] hand.

"I was going to write to you," said Nan, as she looked up at the rector from under the brim of her hat. "Our engagement is to be announced Wednesday."

Holder congratulated them. There was a brief silence, when Nan said tremulously:

"We're coming to St. John's."

"I'm very glad," Holder replied gravely. It was one of those compensating moments for him when [illegible] more freely responded. But the situation, in view of the attitude of Mrs. Ferguson, was too delicate to be [illegible].

"I came to hear you last Sunday, Mr. Holder, [illegible] life was less [illegible] characterize the sex [illegible] referring to which [illegible]. And I had an idea of telling you too, to tell you how much I liked what you said. But I know you must have had many letters. You've made me think."

He flushed, but met the rector's eye. Nan stood regarding him with pride.

"You've made me think, too," she [illegible]. "And we intend to pitch in and help you, if we can be of any use."

He parted from them, wondering. And it was not until he had reached the parish house that it occurred to him that he was as yet unenlightened as to the young man's [illegible].

His second reflection brought back to his mind Kate Marcy, for it was with a portion of Nan Ferguson's generous check that her board had been paid. And he recalled the girl's hope, as she had given it to him, that he would need some one in Dalton Street to help. . . .

II.

There might, to the mundane eye, have been an element of the ridiculous in the spectacle of the rector of St. John's counting his gains, since he had chosen—with every indication of insanity—to bring the pillars of his career crashing down on his own head. By no means the least, however, of the treasures flung into his lap was the tie which now bound him to the Philip Goodriches, which otherwise would never have been possible. And as he made his way thither on this particular evening a renewed sense came upon him of his emancipation from the dreary, useless hours he had been wont to spend at other dinner tables. That existence appeared to him now as the glittering, feverish unreality of a nightmare filled with restless women and tired men who drank champagne, thus gradually achieving—by the time cigars were reached—an artificial vivacity. The caprice and superficiality of [illegible] to dwell [illegible] the blindness to what was going on around them, the materialism, the mere standard of both, were nauseating in the retrospect.

How, indeed, had life once appeared so distorted to him, a professed servant of [illegible] as to lead him in the name of duty into that galley?

Such was the burden of his thought when the [illegible] front of the Goodrich house greeted him in the darkness, its unshrouded windows gleaming with friendly light. As the door opened the merry sound of children's laughter floated down the stairs and it seemed to Holder as though a curse had been lifted. . . . The [illegible] of this house had been marked for salvation, the scourge [illegible] by the scourge of sexual striving which lay like a [illegible] on a free people.

Within, the note of gentility, of that instinctive good taste to which many greater mansions aspired in vain, was sustained. The furniture, the pictures, the walls and carpets were true expressions of the [illegible] of master and mistress, of the unity of the life lived together. And the rector smiled as he detected, in a corner of the hall, a sturdy but diminutive hobby-horse—here the final harmonious touch.

There was the sound of a scuffle, treble shrieks of ecstasy from above, and Eleanor Goodrich came out to welcome him.

"It's Phil," she cried. "I'm in laughing despair. He upsets all my discipline and gets them so excited they can't go to sleep for hours."

Her coolness, her radiancy, her complete acceptance of the situation, all this and more he felt from the moment he touched her hand and looked into her face. And never had she so [illegible] represented to him the mysterious essence of fate. Why she should have made the fourth at this intimate gathering, and whether or not she was or had been an especial friend of Eleanor Goodrich he did not know. There was no explanation. . . .

A bowl of superb chrysanthemums occupied the centre of the table. Eleanor lifted them off and placed them on the sideboard.

"I've got used to looking at Phil," she explained, "and craning is so painful."

The effect at first was to increase the intensity of the intimacy. There was no reason—he told himself—why Alison's self-possession should have been disturbed, and as he glanced at her from time to time he perceived that it was not. So completely was she mistress of herself that presently he felt a certain faint resentment rising within him—yet he asked himself why she should not have been.

New Uses for Preserves

By Loretta C. Lynch

An Acknowledged Expert in All Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

MOST of us did some preserving and canning during the Summer and Fall. Some of us bought our preserves. But the fact is that most of us have some on hand. Unfortunately, the family does not always seem to appreciate our efforts to provide these preserves because we are either too generous with them or because we have been serving them just as they come from the container.

Wouldn't it be a novelty to surprise the family by serving your jelly, for instance, in a way a bit unusual? Suppose you make a jelly pancake. Beat until light, four eggs. Beat in one-fourth cup sugar and the same quantity of flour. Add a few grains of salt. When the large pancake is done, spread it over quickly with jelly and roll it up. Slice and serve with powdered sugar at once.

Bread pudding may be given a new twist by making it into a queen of puddings. Make the regular bread pudding, putting the yolks only into the pudding and reserving the whites. After the pudding is baked spread it over with a thick layer of jelly.

Make a meringue by beating the whites until stiff and then beating into them two tablespoons or so of powdered sugar. Spread over the jelly. Sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar and return to the oven for a few moments to lightly brown. This served with custard sauce is delicious indeed.

Stale cake, especially sponge cake, may be dipped into milk for a second and then served as a simple pudding with a sauce made of melted jelly. The jelly may be melted in a small saucepan set over boiling water and then a tablespoon or two of hot water added to it. This jelly sauce is good on other puddings such as rice, custard, tapioca.

Jelly is good between layers of cake. One busy woman whom I know buys the sponge cake in a package at the grocer's and splits it and spreads it with home-made jelly and sprinkles the top with shredded cocoanut.

Jelly combined with cream cheese is often used as a filling for sandwiches to be served with afternoon tea.

Then there are the canned peaches and apricots. We do get tired of eating them just as is. Suppose you try this. Drain the syrup from a can of peaches or apricots. Press the fruit through a coarse strainer. Whip until stiff the whites of two eggs. Cut and fold these into the fruit pulp. Serve heaped high in glass dishes and well chilled. Whipped cream or the syrup from the fruit may be used as a sauce.

CHAPTER LVIII.

Copyright 1921, by Star Company.

PERHAPS in all her life before, Mary Throckmorton had never been actually afraid of her father's wrath. But now she was. Yet her love for Peter moved her to summon her courage to his defense.

"Don't you think," she faltered, "that it would be well to learn the facts from Pierre, Dad, before condemning him as you do? Newspaper reports are not always accurate."

"No—but that stuff"—pointing to the glaring headlines, "could not have been made up out of whole cloth. There is some truth in it—of that I am sure."

"Surely you might let Pierre explain!" Mary pleaded.

Yet a secret doubt assailed her as to the possibility of her brother's furnishing a satisfactory alibi. She regretted her suggestion when her father strolled to the library door and flung it open.

"Peter!" he bellowed.

"What the devil's the matter?" came from the head of the stairs. "Is the house on fire?"

"You would not be of much help if it was!" the father called back angrily. "Come down here!"

"I am not dressed yet!"

"Then come as you are! I don't propose to wait on your convenience, young man!"

And Peter Appears

A moment later Peter appeared in the doorway. Over his silk pajamas he wore a deep crimson dressing gown trimmed with quilted satin. His bare feet were thrust into slippers of the same color. His tousled hair gave him an unkempt look. The merciless morning light brought out the sagging lines about the handsome mouth, the shadows under the dark eyes. He resembled some man who had been through a severe illness.

"What the devil's the matter?" he repeated surlily.

The father's keen eyes took in every detail of his son's appearance. For a moment the elderly man's lips twitched. Then, with a frown, he fought back what might have been a tremor of something like fear.

"Enough is the matter!" he exclaimed. "Read the whole filthy story for yourself!"

With elaborate indifference Peter walked to the table and took up the newspaper. As he saw the headlines, his fingers gripped the sheet with a nervous contraction. There was no sound in the room as he read, the paper trembling in his unsteady hands.

But when he had finished the perusal, he turned to the trio who watched him.

"Well?" was all he said.

"Well?" his father hurled back at him. "What have you got to say?"

"Nothing—except that reporters must live," the young man replied.

"Do you mean," the father demanded, "that the story is a lie? It would be best for you to tell the truth—that's all!"

"I don't mind telling the truth!" Peter burst forth. "The facts are that I was in a restaurant—and that I knocked Lewis Shelden down. Now, what have you got to say about it?"

"Oh, Peter!" Sophia's wail broke in upon the shocked silence following this declaration. "Why did you?—when you know that only common vulgar men get into such fusses—and when you know that poor dear Mary"—

"What about Mary?" her son wheeled upon the agitated matron. "You mean that Mary has encouraged that cur Shelden? Yes—she has! And he has wanted to marry her for her money!"

"And you knocked him down because he dared to speak disrespectfully of your sister?"

A Hope Dispelled

There was a note of hope in the tone in which Rufus Throckmorton asked this question.

"No—and why I knocked him down is my own business, sir!" was the sharp retort.

The father laid a strong hand upon his son's arm.

"It is my business!" he declared roughly. "I did not mean to say this, Pete, but you drive me to it. I have been making some investigation, and I know how you have squandered money. I also know that you got intoxicated last Saturday night."

"If I did it was not on your money!" the son exclaimed angrily.

"Not on my money, eh?" the father jeered. "I suppose you mean you made it by gambling? Well, whose was the money you put up to begin with?"

"It was money I had a right to, anyway," the son said. "You know well enough that I was not in a condition to go to work after my overseas experiences."

"I know nothing of the kind!" the father thundered. "I know you tried to make me think you were not—and succeeded for a while. But thousands of other fellows came home wounded and smashed up, and got jobs. As you ought to have done—and as you will, or starve!"

Keeping to Facts

Reginald Archibald FitzDoubleblang Brane was pitching the yarn to a few unfortunates.

"Oh, weally, don't cha know," he lisped. "I'm an awfully bally good shot. I wemember once I had a topping gun, covered with dust and all that sort of rot, old things. But I got my man, you know, to oil the beastly thing, for I didn't want it to stand there idle, old beans. Well, just at that time there were wumors of thousands of wild ducks migrating, my goodness, souts. So I strapped on my bally old belt, seized the weapon, and sallied forth. I had no sooner entered the swamps than I saw a weally wonderful sight. —I nevah saw such a sight, bah Jove, no! A thousand ducks rose all together! I fired quickly, and I brought down nine hundred and ninety-nine"——

"Why don't you make it a thousand?" said a listener sarcastically.

"Oh, weally, I say," protested Reginald. "You don't want me to tell a lie for the sake of one bally duck, do you?"

SOLDIERS COLONIZING IN GERMANY—They threatened to rebel if the German government did not aid them in restoring their homes and have been granted 45,000 acres of land to colonize. (Wide World)

HAVE A SNOW BATH—Vera and Catherine Rhaesa of New York don't look the least bit chilly standing in the drifts on Coney Island. The water's fine, say they, when a few cakes of ice cool it off a bit. A couple of hours frolic is just what the doctor ordered. (U. & U.)

LEMONS, LEMONS, EVERYWHERE—And not a drop to use them with. The crop was so big in California this year that hardly half the fruit could be handled for shipping. The rest was piled along the roads by the groves, and the public invited to help itself. Being the public, it did. (Underwood & Underwood)

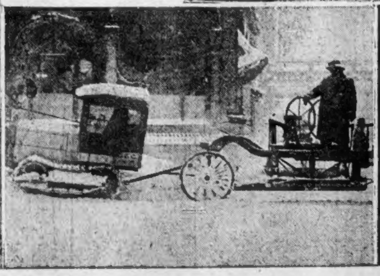
RUSSIAN LEADERS POSED FOR HER—Mrs. Clare Sheridan, English sculptress, is now in this country on a lecture tour. Has just returned from visit to Russia. Lost husband in war. (U. & U.)

CATCHING FRIDAY'S DINNER—This Babine Indian of British Columbia suspends a paltform by poles lashed to rocks and trees over the river and captures the wily salmon. (U. & U.)

JOYS OF THE TOREADOR—Flying through the air, a sixteenth of an inch from the sharp horns of an infuriated bull, is as much a habit with the Spanish toreadors as cigarettes. Your signor gets his ride by stabbing the animal with his banderilla and then hanging on. The bull always loses, but puts up quite a battle. (Wide World)

BUSINESS ADVISER FOR WOMEN—Miss Martha Sears has discovered a new job. She has a department in the Bank of the U. S., New York, and steers her sisters around financial shoals. (U. & U.)

LOOKS LIKE A FINE SPRING—This one-piece serge frock will be one of the popular models when the girls shed the fur bonnies. We'll say it'll be popular. (U. & U.)



TRACTORS FOR SNOW PLOWS—Over in New York the city has more than 150 caterpillar tractors, which have proved most successful chasing snowdrifts from the thoroughfares. The tieups caused by the big storms last Winter led the city fathers to invest. Sunday's blizzard was badly licked when the big tractors had their first real test. (U. & U.)

DIVIDING THE ATOM—Fred Howard of Boston has subdivided globules of chemical fluid to unbelievable fineness. He's a shoe "doctor" and is devising new leather treatment. (Central)

SKI SOARING IN THE ALPS—This Swiss soldier was snapped taking off on one of the longest ski jumps on record. The yodelers have the best jumping army in the world. (Central News)

WHERE PERFUMES ARE MADE—The finest perfumes in the world come from Southern France. This is a section of the sixty thousand acres of flower beds that surround the little town of Grasse. The blossoms are picked, spread on glass thickly smeared with lard. The lard gathers the oil from the blooms and is then dissolved in alcohol. (Int.)

Manchester, N. H., Feb. 25.—The highway commissioners of the city of Manchester have repudiated the contract made by former Director of Public Works M. F. Shea and Mayor Moise Verrette with L. Bayles Reilly of Boston, as consulting engineer on two bridges which the city proposes to construct over the Merrimack River. The members of the commission claim that the contract is illegal.

DECLARES LAZY MOTHERS BACK CENSOR BILL

Mrs. Leatherbee of Women's League Sees Film Measure as Dangerous Precedent

"Let's keep vision from becoming a function of government." That is the advice of Mrs. Albert T. Leatherbee of the Women's Municipal League, who, in an interview with the Boston American, comes out strongly against State censorship of moving pictures.

"One of the chief sponsors of censorship of moving pictures," said Mrs. Leatherbee, "is the neglectful mother who gives her child a dollar and tells him to go off and not to bother her with his noise. I think it is too bad for such a woman to expect the State to assume her maternal duties for her.

"Children should have their pictures censored by their mothers; not have those mothers throw everything back upon the outsider. Because motion picture censorship infringes on the few individual rights a citizen of this country still possesses, I am opposed to it.

WANTS RIGHT TO DECIDE.

"I think we have a right to decide for ourselves what we shall or shall not see on the screen, so long as it is neither indecent nor obscene. What shall be shown the public should not be prejudged before exhibition by an arbitary board that has no restrictions as to its action.

"It is a dangerous precedent to give a very few people the power to say what we shall see, what we shall hear or what we shall read. Censorship of films is the wedge for censorship of drama, literature and news. It will lead to suppression of free speech and free press.

"This present bill will allow the individual censors to run wild according to their own theories. We are all human and have our pet theories and our pet aversions. Censors will cut and suppress according to their personal opinions. If a narrow, bigoted person be appointed censor he will naturally use his office to suppress what he does not like. If he disapprove of medicine or vaccination or vivisection or high heels or any other special thing, he will cut out anything in favor of such ideas. It gives too great an opportunity for bigotry of every kind to find expression or suppression.

DEFENDS MOST MOVIES.

"We have plenty of law now to prevent indecent films. All that is needed is to enforce the present law, and if these cannot be enforced all the boards of censors in the world won't accomplish the purpose.

"And then how many indecent films do we see. I grant we get a lot of mussy, huggy, kissey stuff and a lot of puerile so-called comedy rot. But there is nothing bad in them. The way to get rid of such stuff is by educating public opinion, and I think the film producers are improving constantly and getting out better and better stuff.

"Lots of films that are perfectly suitable for adults are not suitable for children. But must the adult population be confined in its entertainment to films that are on the mental level of a twelve-year-old child, because parents won't look out for their children and find out what is being shown before sending them to the movies? Why is movie censorship any more necessary to preserve innocent childhood than newspaper censorship or any other kind of censorship?

OPPOSED BY MANY WOMEN.

"Then, again, this censorship project is absolutely impractical. No board can possibly view enough films to supply the demand of our 500 and more picture houses. The censors will have to delegate their powers and that means more expense. If the supply of films be curtailed, motion picture house managers will have to shorten their exhibitions and some small houses will be put out of business. Thus a great educational factor will be destroyed as well as a means of harmless entertainment taken away from a lot of people.

"The idea is abroad that the women want censorship. Now, I know a whole lot of women who don't want it. What they want is regulation and the enforcement of present law, but no level-headed person who has any respect for individual liberty wants the Governor to appoint a few people to control our amusements and tell us what we shall or shall not look at on the screen."

THURSDAY KNIGHTERS BACK PELLETIER

District Atorney Pelletier declared that the proposed bill to eliminate the nol prossing of cases by distarict attorney and to bring the district attorneys under the supervision of the Attorney-General "is bringing us back to what the Americans fought against King George for in the Eighteenth Century," in an address to the Thursday Knighters Club at the Elk's Home last evening. Sheriff John A. Keliher discussed conditions at Charles Street Jail and resolution was unanimously adopted: "That the club views with alarm the attempt to take from the people of the various counties the care and management of public institutions, and the effort being made to deprive the district attorneys of the State of the power exercised by them from the beginning." The entertainment was furnished by Jay M. Regan, Jack Caddigan, Chick Storey, Youdi Madden of the 101st Infantry and Billy Morris and Arthur McNeil.

RELATIVES TO CONTEST BROCKTON WOMAN'S WILL

Brockton, Feb. 25.—Relatives of Mrs. Sophie L. Marston of this city have taken steps to contest her will by which she left an estate valued at $4,000 to Mrs. Albert R. Gardner of Dexter street. City Solicitor Wilbar, representing the relatives, has asked for a jury hearing.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS

Bright Movie Season Ahead, With Producers Planning Big Things for Boston Film Fans

Western Newspaper Union.

"Alas, poor Yorick, I knew him well," exclaimed Douglas Fairbanks dolefully, as he held up his broken arm for the camera man. After making ten and twelve-foot jumps easily it took a five-foot fall to put him out of the acting business for a while.

By FRIEDA DAVIS.

AT THIS TIME last year it would have taken something like recklessness to see as brilliant a movie season ahead as the following months brought us.

The next few months, however, are unquestionably bright. With Griffith working on another Limehouse Nights story, "Dream Street," and plans all laid to film "Faust"; with Cecil De Mille's "Forbidden Fruit" coming and numberless others of his; with Marshall Neilan's "Bob Hampton of Placer"; Rex Ingram's "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," and the special features from the stories of the famous authors Goldwyn and Famous Players-Lasky are scheduled to produce, we have something to look forward to.

Last year's pictures were far above the standard of the year before. They brought us "Way Down East," "The River's End," "Male and Female" and quantities of lesser films, some very good, some pretty flimsy.

One thing about the work in the movies is that somthing is always happening. Pictures are always going to do something spectacular, they are on the verge of a sudden slump or else about to revolutionize the industry. Those in the know say that a great change has come. Films are being made by the best people the producers can get; best directors, best writers, best players, and so on. We believe it's true.

At least one manager is beginning to see the advantage and wisdom of establishing theatres for long-run films, such as "Way Down East" and "Kismet." Griffith is building a theatre in Philadelphia in which to run his pictures and will undoubtedly follow it up with a chain of theatres in the larger cities of the east.

A. H. Woods, the theatrical producer, has found by renting his Chicago playhouse to Griffith for "Way Down East" that he has made a fortune and they are still literally "turning them away." He is now seriously considering, it's said, establishing a chain of theatres in New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia just for such productions. With "Kismet" and "Passion" occupying two of our legitimate theatres in town, another picture of Griffith's soon be to released, and "The Four Horsemen" waiting for a theatre, it's strange that no one has made such plans before.

THE TALMADGES' COOK AND THE CONTEST

ARE PEOPLE interested in movies?

Are they!

The crowds that tramped in and out of the Boston American office last Monday from early morning to late at night to bring in their movie test packages proved conclusively that they are.

They came in hordes and then, at the last minute, each seemed to have an idea about a certain picture. Packages were reopened, strings and papers flying everywhere, and the people scratched out and rewrote, then scratched out again.

"Is it Richard Barthelmess or isn't it?" one murmured, then another: "Why, that can't be Gloria Swanson! She's such and such a number, isn't she?"

And so it went.

The other day Norma Talmadge told a story of what the contest did for her family.

"It's upset the entire place," she said laughing. "First the cook discovered there was one and she just 'went to it.' The first pictures seemed easy, so she thought she had the thousand dollars well 'cinched,' as Connie says.

"Every day she got the paper and pored over the contest pictures. She wouldn't do any cooking until she guessed who each player was. It wasn't bad in the beginning, but when the pictures were masked and half-covered over, we were in danger of starving!

"When I'd come home from the studio I'd find mother, Natalie and sometimes Connie chewing pencils and looking over movie magazines for clews. We're anxious to see the answers now, and as for the cook! If she doesn't win I'm afraid she'll leave. She seemed to feel it a personal affront if Connie and I didn't recognize everybody."

DOROTHY DALTON SIGNS

DOROTHY DALTON is coming back to pictures. After a season on the New York stage in the title role of "Aphrodite," she has decided that the screen's best, after all. Famous Players-Lasky have signed her up to play the leading roles in Cecil DeMille's pictures.

Although Miss Dalton has starred in her own right for several years, she is more than glad, she declares, to give up her stardom to be featured in such films as DeMille turns out. A good picture does more for one's popularity than any amount of electric lights blazing out one's name in an inferior production. All the public cares about is whether the film is good or bad.

Since her stage appearance Miss Dalton has been vacationing in New York and Palm Beach. She will leave for Hollywood within the next few weeks to start work.

WE'VE JUST HEARD THAT—

MAE MARSH has just written a book, "Screen Acting," giving her experience in pictures as well as advice to others who want to go into films. Miss Marsh will start production soon with her own organization, according to a report sent out by her husband, Louis L. Arms.

THREE AMERICAN companies, Famous Players-Lasky, First National and Goldwyn, have made tremendous offers to Pola Negri, the Polish actress, who plays the part of DuBarry in "Passion." Miss Negri is coming to this country in May and will then decide whether she will make films here or on the continent.

MAURICE TOURNEUR will film R. D. Blackmore's story, "Lorna Doone." He is selecting his players at present and will take them to England to take the pictures in Devonshire County, where the author laid the scenes. One of the costumes worn by Lorna will be an exact reproduction of that in a famous painting that hangs in the National Gallery in London.

PENRHYN STANLAWS, the illustrator, who went out to California over a year ago to learn the movie business from the ground up, has signed up to direct Betty Compson in her first Famous Players picture, "At the End of the World."

Movie Censorship Strikes at Rights of Democracy

The perennial scheme to censor moving pictures is before the Massachusetts Legislature this year. We suppose it will have the same character of support which has backed it year after year, notwithstanding its constant defeats. There will be the great body of honest and earnest men and women who sincerely believe that motion pictures ought to be censored, but who do not give much consideration to the kind of censorship which is necessary and to the question whether the remedy proposed is worse than the disease because it injures much more important public interests, namely, the right of free speech and free press. There will also be found in alliance with these honest people a little group of grafters, or rather would-be grafters, who hope that those opposed to censorship, in the form suggested, will take them into camp.

Some form of restraint quite as effective, if not more effective in the long run, than the censorship proposed by the censorship advocates could long ago have been passed into law if the advocates of censorship had made a more serious effort to find a method of censorship which would have accomplished that purpose and yet would not have violated the principle of free speech and free writing so precious to a democracy.

One of the greatest and longest struggles for constitutional liberty which our forefathers made was to secure the right to exercise freely whatever means they had of influencing public opinion, and informing public opinion on matters of public interest. The reason that our constitutions declare that the right to speak freely and to write freely shall not be denied, is because, at the time our constitutions were framed, speaking and writing were the only means then known of affecting public opinion and of conveying information. Until the rise of the moving picture speech and press were the only media of intelligence.

But the moving picture, like the newspaper, is today a powerful means of influencing public opinion as well as giving entertainment. All great propagandist agencies use the moving picture and during the war all the governments used it for all kinds of purposes affecting public opinion. Our government acknowledged its great service and the French government declared that it was chiefly responsible for the success of the greatest loan the French people ever raised.

Probably more than twenty times as many people see our moving pictures every day in the United States than read the newspapers at the time our forefathers embalmed the freedom of speech and writing in our constitutions. To put this great propaganda power in the control of appointed censors whose judgment must to all practical purposes be arbitrary and discretionary and beyond the control of any superior authority, ought to be unthinkable to those who give the matter any thought and who appreciate the necessity of keeping the agencies of conveying intelligence and influencing public opinion free.

That there are, nevertheless, so many good people and intelligent people who advocate for publicity censorship is a sad commentary upon the fact that rights which we inherit, however necessary and precious, we hold in little esteem; it is only the rights we have to struggle for that we value.

Women largely comprise the advocates of censorship. This is natural and springs from a characteristic of women that no one could fail to applaud; but in attempting to meet an evil, consideration of relative values ought to be given. Especially there ought to be a most careful search for a method which would accomplish the purpose and yet not invade fundamental rights and strike at a great pillar in the Temple of Liberty. The vice in unrestrained exhibition of moving pictures can be adequately regulated without violating any important rights of democracy.

About Judge Landis, Palmer and One Woodrow Wilson

The impeachment of Judge Landis will never come to the point of trial. The sense of proportion is strong in the American mind. And even a dull mind could not fail to see the absurdity of putting Judge Landis on trial before the Senate for an act of leniency to a tempted and erring young man, while higher officials who have contemptuously trampled upon the mandates and guarantees of the Constitution and the laws go scot free.

So long as Woodrow Wilson was not impeached for spending millions of the public funds and spilling the blood of hundreds of young American men in a privately conducted and wholly unlawful military expedition against Russia, and so long as his Secretaries of State and Treasury and War Departments are not impeached or prosecuted for the unlawful expenditure of public moneys and the unlawful assistance to foreign factions recruiting and inciting war upon governments with which the United States is not at war, so long would the spectacle of the Senate sitting as a High Court of Justice to try a Federal judge for an alleged error of judgment provoke universal derision.

* * *

It might be remarked, also, that if any Senator hungers and thirsts with unappeasable desire for an impeachment trial, one A. Mitchell Palmer offers a shining mark for probably successful prosecution before the Senate or in the regular courts. Both as Attorney-General and as Custodian of Alien Property the acts of Mr. Palmer were more detrimental to the honor of the United States, more contemptuous of the plain words of solemn treaty obligations, more defiant of the guaranteed rights and liberties of aliens and citizens alike, and more morally criminal—and we think more legally criminal—than the combined acts charged to the men whose property he seized and whose arrests he ordered, without warrant or justification of law. The Senate that would sit to try Judge Landis, while A. Mitchell Palmer was not called to account for his deeds, would be the laughing stock of the United States.

Law and Order

Some persons only learn a law so as to be able to break the law. They are rather proud of their lawlessness or they would not tell of it when they break over the law.

If any law is a poor one the more it is lived up to the sooner its flaws and defects will be discovered and corrected.

It is foolish for human beings—thinking animals—to try to circumvent the law. Laws in this country can be changed if sentiment is strong enough.

Trying to evade the law, talking against efforts of the lawmakers, with no real reason except to be a kicker or to show that you care little for law and order is to show that you belong to a low order of mentality.

Know the laws, live up to them, watch results and then cast our influence to make others want to do the same.

Why Spoil a Good Thing?

By S. E. KISER

WHEN I am starting home, at night,
I have the hope that we shall meet;
She always puts my cares to flight
Just by her presence in the street.
Her pretty nose and mouth and eyes
And neck and chin and cheeks and hair
Have made me glad when, otherwise,
I might not have been free from care.

I'VE never heard her voice; I know
Not what her native town may be;
Perhaps she comes from Broken Bow
Or Tuckahoe or Manistee;
She may have many friends or few
Who call her Mabel, Maude or Pearl;
But be it Jane or Sal or Sue
I'm glad that she was born a girl.

SHE may have left a daily task
As I start homeward, full of cheer;
I've never halted her to ask,
And cannot make the matter clear;
She may be married and possess
An unappreciative mate;
But, anyhow, I like to guess
That she has missed so hard a fate.

SHE has not failed to smile at me,
But I shall never risk the chance
Of spoiling what, as you may see,
Is something very like romance!
I'll still be gladdened as we pass,
The thing shall go no further, though;
She may consider me an ass,
Why stop to let her tell me so?

WHY THE MYSTERIOUSNESS?—

"Do you think you could manage to slip us something in a teapot?" he asked as the waiter lingered to get the order.

"I might; but why do you want it in a teapot? Are you a prohibition officer?"

Letters to the Editor

Editor Boston American:

More than three years have passed and the working class government of Russia still holds its own. No army in all history has suffered such misery and privation as have the iron battalions of the Soviet Republic. Never have soldiers of any land gone forth to brave the terrors and tortures of war with as lofty ideals and principles as have inspired the defenders and guardians of the Russian Revolution. The workers in America little realize what their brethren in the Workers' Republic have endured so that Czarism might not be re-established. The soldiers of the Red Army have defeated overwhelmingly on all fronts those who wished to undermine the work of the Russian revolutionists. But Russia is in need today. Its 180,000,000 men, women and children are hungry, sick and cold. They are looking to America for succor, not in the form of charity, but in the way of clothes, machinery, foodstuffs and medicine supplies for which the Soviet government is ready and willing to pay in gold. Russians by the tens of thousands have entered into the Valley of Death because of the heartlessness and appalling brutality of a certain element in this country who fear a government of, by and for the workers.

When will the class conscious workers of the United States, true to the spirit of its martyred dead, demand that this government recognize the Soviet Republic of Russia, so that a mighty nation may continue to live and play its destined role in the history of mankind? VICTOR GERTLIN.

A lot of newly-rich people got up a monkey wedding at Palm Beach not long ago. Palm Beach would be pretty dull if marriage were always taken seriously there.

By K. C. B.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 23.

I WAS hanging around.

IN THE corridors.

OUTSIDE THE doors.

WHERE THE Senate sits.

AND LYING in wait.

FOR A Senator.

FROM MY old State.

AND WONDERING.

IF HE'D be glad.

I LOOKED him up.

AND, ANYWAY.

HE CAME at last.

AND TRIED to look glad.

AND SHOOK my hand.

AND WE sat down.

AND RIGHT away.

HE STARTED to tell.

WHAT A very good day.

THE SENATE had had.

AND HOW it had passed.

APPROPRIATION BILLS.

FOR EIGHT hundred millions.

AND HE seemed quite pleased.

THEY'D DONE so well.

AND I wanted to ask him.

IF THE bills had carried.

JUST ONE hundred millions.

IF MAYBE he'd have figured.

THEY'D HAD a rotten day.

BUT JUST being a voter.

AND A humble tax payer.

IT WAS none of my business.

AND I didn't do it.

BUT SOMEHOW or other.

I'D HAVE felt a lot better.

IF HE hadn't been so pleased.

AND BETTER yet.

IF HE'D cried a little.

AND APOLOGIZED.

AND HAD tried to explain.

HOW THEY had to do it.

AND COULDN'T help it.

AND WHILE we were talking.

A LOT of other Senators.

CAME THROUGH the doors.

AND ALL were happy.

AND THERE I was.

AS THE sole representative.

OF THE common people.

WHO HAD to pay.

THE EIGHT hundred millions.

AND A whole lot more

I THANK you.

A MIRACLE OF HEALING

By Edith Davids.

Manila, P. I., December, 1920.

"AMERICANS wrought in these islands the greatest sanitary achievement in history," said the Old Timer, as he motored me over to Tondo, Manila's Malay town.

Scourges had constantly swept the Philippines. A hundred thousand people in a year died of cholera. Smallpox carried off half as many. The most dreaded disease of all times and nations—leprosy—roamed unchecked. Epidemics of bubonic plague were frequent.

A REMARKABLE young American, Dr. Victor G. Seiser, took charge of health conditions. Bubonic plague he wiped out; cholera he controlled. Lepers were segregated in the beautiful island colony, Culion. Smallpox practically disappeared.

There are today, besides the General Hospital, which has nearly five hundred beds, sixteen public hospitals in these islands. Twenty-seven of the forty-odd provinces possess medical laboratories. Free public dispensaries number 562.

IN a stream of Oriental and tropical life we crossed the Bridge of Spain, which spans the narrow Pasig River.

When the Americans came over, Tondo was a mass of nipa-palm shacks, almost without streets. The shacks were raised on stilts. Tropical rains flooded the ground. Through the interstices of the rattan floors the natives threw the family rejecta. The Americans hewed through the quarter wind-cleansing thoroughfares. Sanitarians armed with pails of disinfectant crawled underneath the shacks. Drains were dug—there was not a sewer east of Suez!

The American bishop, Brent, built a hospital in Tondo—St. Luke's. Dr. Burdette, the distinguished American surgeon in charge, showed me over the wards.

ONE of the great surprises of my trip ensued. Dr. Burdette made a remark. I caught only the last word, "Igorrotes." Before my mind's eye flashed a picture of a gory human head spiked on a tall spear, around it savage Igorrote head-hunters circling in weird ceremonial dance. The scene faded out, and I was standing there in the immaculately white, modernly appointed surgery with an alert young Filipino physician and five sparkling-faced little Filipino nurses. Dr. Burdette repeated the remark:

"They are all Igorrotes!"

A Moro girl, in picturesque native garb, shared the stateroom with me on my return northward from a trip down to Jolo in Mohammedan Sululand. She was a graduate of the university in this city and a nurse in the hospital at Zamboanga!

LEAVING Zamboanga, the steamer stopped at Cebu and Dumaguete in the central Philippines.

The oldest town in the island, Cebu, is, next to Manila, the largest and most important. The drama and tragedy of Magellan's life closed there. Bejewelled like the Bambino of Rome, there reposes in the Augustinian Church a small brown image of the Infant Christ, given by the nobleman-explorer to the wife of Cebu's tribal chief when he planted the standard of Spain on Philippine soil, twenty-nine years after Columbus raised it on the shores of America.

To visit this famed Santo Nino of Cebu, we traversed Calle Colon, the most ancient street in the islands. Its white vista, narrow and balconied with the native hardwoods that last forever, still perpetuates in form the old regime of things Spanish. The main thoroughfare of the town led out to the new order of things American, past the high and trade schools and the beautiful Southern Islands Hospital, screened with purple bloom.

THE fountain that commemorates Cebu's fine water supply marked its end. The sanitary water supply was created in the Philippines by the Americans. Not an artesian well had been drilled until they arrived. There are now more than two thousand. They have cut the death rate in two.

These wells stand for something more than physical health. Mrs. Hibbard, the wife of the president of the immense Silliman Institute at Dumaguete, explained their influence in the life of the community:

"In the cool of the evening the people gather at the well, as they did in Bible times. They drink there of the living waters of American ideals."

The Spectator

THE DAY OF ALCOHOL

THE day of alcohol is not past; it is coming.

When you say alcohol most of the world takes it that you are speaking of something to drink, or, rather, something that makes drinks lively and wicked.

It is true that alcoholic beverages have occupied a deal of space in the poetry, hilarity, jollification, disputation and degradation of mankind. But its use in industry, while not so vivid in appeal to the imagination, is really more considerable.

THE average person will be surprised, says Harry A. Mount, to learn that the Eighteenth Amendment is not all about prohibition. As a matter of fact it is fully as much a law to promote and encourage the use of alcohol as it is to stop it. Here it is:

"An act to prohibit intoxicating beverages and to regulate the manufacture, production, use and sale of high-proof spirits for other than beverage purposes and to secure an ample supply of alcohol and promote its use in scientific research and in the development of fuel, dye and other lawful industries."

FEW of us realize the enormous extent to which we are dependent, one way or another, upon alcohol. In 1919 there were made in this country sixty million gallons of denatured alcohol.

By denatured alcohol is meant that which has been rendered unfit for internal use, because nauseous or hurtful chemicals have been introduced.

It is well nigh impossible to list all the ways in which alcohol is employed. Many of the most vital industries depend absolutely upon it.

It is the universally employed solvent and preservative for perfumes and toilet waters.

Some idea of the variety of its uses may be got from this very fragmentary list, for it is used in large quantities by makers of:

Stains, varnishes, polishes and the like.

Celluloid and similar substances.

Felt hats and other hats.

Smokeless powders and other explosives.

Soaps, washing powders and dyes.

Electric light filaments.

Surgical dressings, matches and fireworks.

Photographic plates and papers.

Besides rubber, artificial silk, inks and many other things.

BUT most important of all, perhaps, will be the use of alcohol as a fuel for interior combustion engines.

The use of the gasoline engine is one of the most amazing developments in the realm of modern industry. It is an age of automobiles. They have changed the aspect of the city and the mode of life and labor in the country. They are being turned out by the thousand daily in factories all over the United States. The motor car has driven the horse from the city boulevards, and the tractor is replacing him upon the farm.

The question has often been raised as to the permanence of our gasoline supply. We know that it comes from the veins of the earth and that no man has any idea of how long it is going to last. Already the chemists are looking about to find something to take its place.

And the only direction in which there is any hope is that of alcohol. The United States Geological Survey predicts that petroleum, from which gasoline is made, will reach its peak of production in about two years. Up till now we have been regarding its store as unlimited, but the time is undoubtedly not far off when we will have to find some substitute, or else a vast amount of machinery will be dead on our hands.

That substitute will very probably be some sort of alcohol. Experiments are being made, and the reports are encouraging. A new motor fuel with an alcohol base has been tried out by airplanes in the mail service with gratifying results. The claim is made that it delivers more power per gallon, does not carbonize and saves considerably in lubricating oil.

ANY plant or fruit rich in starch or sugar can be fermented and made to yield alcohol. Also any wood or weed, sawdust or stalks, will yield alcohol; but to get this result the cellulose in the material must be first turned to sugar and then fermented, and no economical process has yet been invented to do this.

It is a safe guess, however, to predict that, as yesterday was the day of coal, and today is the day of petroleum, so tomorrow will be the day of alcohol.
